Tank-full of Problems in State's Fuel Plan?

Suppose your neighbor, short on fuel oil, calls Borough Hall and gets some while you, also short on fuel oil, don't get any because it never occurred to you to call Borough Hall.

Brought up short by thoughts of neighborhood mayhem in such a situation, Borough Council Tuesday night decided to look deeper into the fuel tank before deciding to go along with the state's Civil Defense and Disaster Control plan.

Under this plan, announced last week through Mercer County, homeowners or small business firms, who only have one week's supply of fuel oil and whose suppliers can't deliver more, could telephone municipal officials (Borough Hall: 924-3119, Township Hall, 924-5704) and get help.

"An administrative mess," is the way Councilman Robert Powell characterized the plan. He doesn't think the Borough--or any town—has the means to allocate fuel oil fairly to its residents. He doesn't think any community has the personnel or the time to investigate each call and provide justice to all.

"I see nothing but trouble," he said gloomily.

Mayor Robert W. Cawley agreed that "we don't have the tools" and he asked attorney Gordon Griffin to explore.

Turn It Off. The energy committee composed of Borough, Township and school representatives has lined up three pages of recommendations on how to save gasoline, electricity and fuel oil, Mayor Cawley announced. They suggest reviewing and possibly shortening, school bus routes; asking students not to drive to school; rescheduling public meetings of various bodies so that several meetings would be held the same night in the same building, and similar belt-tighteners.

Householders are advised to ponder seriously before buying electrical appliances as Christmas gifts, and to limit the use of electric irons, toasters, coffee-makers and dishwashers and reduce the use of water, since it takes energy to pump.

"The committee will continue working," said Mayor Cawley.

Ladies Aid.. Council passed 4-0 (members Lombardo and Sigmund absent) the ordinance allowing a First Aid and Resuce Squad member parking privileges when he is working at his job, and on duty.

There was no ordinance opposition, although a Stuart Country Day School student presented a petition signed by 100 students, faculty and administration, urging the Squad to admit women. Three letters asking admission of women were also presented.

The Squad's parking permission is for six months only. Council hopes the limited term—the Squad wanted one year—will make the Squad rethink the membership issue, and open its ranks to women.

Back to Zoning. For the second time, Council sent back to the Zoning Board the use variances request of William Bunting to convert his property at 16 Vandeventer into two apartments and an office. The Zoning Board recommended that Council grant the variance. It recommended also that a parking variance be granted, but set conditions: Mr. Bunting would have to provide two parking spaces at the rear off Lincoln Court and one at the side of the property, and screen them.

Mr. Bunting, in a long and eloquent plea, protested that the conditions and the use variance to construct an office, were separate. He urged Council to follow the Zoning Board's recommendation and give him the use variance, but set aside the board's conditions.

Counsel Griffin said it couldn't be done. Council must either accept the Zoning recommendation or reject it. "Take it or leave it," was his advice.

Mr. Bunting says the screening fence is pointless because he's also the owner of the property next door that's being screened off. With a fence, cars would not have room to turn around, and would have to back out of the lot.

At the moment, Mr. Bunting and the Borough are at a stand-off: if Council had accepted the Zoning Board's recommendation, Mr. Bunting planned to go to court because he protests the conditions. If Council had rejected the Zoning Board's recommendations, he planned to go to court because he wants the use variance.

Council remanded the case to the board—it had done so once before and gotten the same recommedations right back again---because, as Councilman Powell expressed it, better solve the case in the family and save everybody court costs. He characterized the Zoning Board's conditions as "unreasonable."

So did Councilman Arthur Morgan, who praised Mr. Bunting for a "first-class renovation" of an old house.

"The zoning recommendation doesn't make any sense," he said sharply, "this is exactly the kind of thing we want to encourage Borough property-owners to do."

Longer School Vacation

Because of the energy crisis, Princeton's public schools will be closed three additional days for the holiday recess, the school board decided Tuesday night.

Schools will re-open after the holidays on Monday, January 7, instead of Wednesday, January 2 as originally scheduled. The last day of school before vacation will remain Friday, December 21.

Whether school secretaries, office workers and custodians will have the extra time, will be determined "in the spirit of the energy crisis," the board decided, thereby leaving the option door wide open.

TOWN TOPICS' Appeal Receives $1086

From the 1973 TOWN TOPICS Christmas Appeal:

"Michael, only 4, was distraught and uncomprehending over the disaster of his mother's serious operation. A shy, withdrawn and clinging child, he was terrified of further separation from his mother after her return from the hospital. The social workers felt that Michael should go to nursery school a few hours each morning so his mother could rest and regain her strength

"TOWN TOPICS' money, supplemented by other funds, provided his tuition. Gradually, Michael began to enjoy contact with his school friends and to blossom socially. His nursery school experience, impossible without TOWN TOPICS' assistance, had a double value: it enabled his mother to recover more quickly than she would have otherwise, and it brought Michael happily out of his small shell."

Contribution to this year's fund will solve similar problems confronting courageous but needy Princeton area families. Six days after the 1973 appeal was published, $1,086.50 had been received

Checks should be made payable to the Town Topics Christmas Fund and mailed to P.O. Box 664, Princeton. Every penny given goes directly to the cases certified by the Family Service Agency--all administrative costs are met by TOWN TOPICS.

PHS Student Vote

A clamor rose from this remark.

"The building DOES TOO make a difference!" shouted one boy, "the environment you're in, it affects how you think!"

"I've got nothing against this nice old building," an ally said, "but no matter what you do to it, it's good for teachers. And we're just boxed in by these rooms."

Students discussed the suggested site of a new high school, the high land on Cherry Hill Road, across Route 206. One student said the land should be kept open, "it's nice and wooded up there." Another, perhaps with some experience in the adult community, observed, "Neighbors would object: this is a residential area."

Many students, both pro- and-con renovation, wondered what would happen to classes while remodeling was in process.

"You'd have pounding away on the walls all the time," one boy said gloomily, "how can you learn with all that noise?"

"It wouldn't make any difference," said a classmate, with a kind of bleak despair. "There's so many distractions already in this place...."

Freshmen in one science class, discussing the options before a lab session, had no use for a new building at all, even though they themselves could conceivably be in a new structure as seniors.

"You know where that nine million would come from?" one boy asked rhetorically, "from us and our parents!"

"There aren't all that many problems in this building," commented another boy, looking around the science lab., "it's not TOO small as is."

"Penny-pinching!" said one freshman scornfully of the difference between Options Two and Three. "Why not spend a little more?" he demanded, "you could have, like, better programs." Then, after a moment he asked, "How'd they get such precise dollar figures, anyway?"

One student elaborated on the need, as he saw it, to spend the additional money estimated for Option Two over Option Three:

"In a few more years, you'd find you needed more because things change," he explained, "Prices—you know—they go up. You'd need more space and prices would be even higher and you'd wish you'd spent the money now."

Freshmen in this class, still fitting themselves in to the PHS routine, protested the time and inconvenience it takes to get to classes in the outhouse buildings. Use of these "temporary" structures also dilutes the feeling of "one school," the freshmen said.

In almost every class, students shied away from the cost of a new building and its location far from the center of town. The poll invited open-ended comment and students repeatedly spoke of cost and location as well as of their affection for the old building.

In a letter to the Tower, "Two Concerned Sophomores" said they felt "strongly" that a new building is "completely unnecessary."

"Which would be better?" they asked, "A beautiful building, but no activities or supplies, or a shack with fantastic, innovative teachers and plenty of opportunities to take trips? Think! Straighten out your values!"

The Tower, in its editorial, also thinks money would be better spent on "things...that are essential to the educational programs of PHS." The paper believes that major renovations would provide the facilities of a new building without its cost, and would allow retention of "an ideal site."

"Besides," the Tower says, "the old place kinda grabs ya right in the heart!"

FUEL FORCES CLOSING

University Extends Break. In the face of mounting reports of a fuel oil shortage of as much as 25 percent, and with its own conservation measures expected to produce a savings of only 14 percent, Princeton University this week decided to extend its Christmas vacation two weeks.

Undergraduate dormitories and some academic buildings will be closed during that period and their temperatures allowed to sink to as low as 40 degrees. With this step, plus a continued program of temperature reductions in all buildings through February and March, the University hopes to realize a savings of 20 percent compared to normal fuel requirements.

In announcing the decision to extend the vacation, and the resulting modifications in the University calendar, Princeton officials emphasized that this was a minimum step, and that more stringent steps may still have to be taken.

Under the new schedule, students are not expected back from Christmas vacation until January 21. "We hope to know by then how we will have to operate and end the problem of uncertainty before people come back," said Paul B. Firstenberg, financial vice president.

"Changing conditions could, of course, necessitate further adjustments in the calendar," said University President William G. Bowen, "but we intend to ddo all we can to keep the schedule outlined."

..Bad News. "The scholastic, research and administrative functions of the University will continue through the extended recess, albeit under conditions of reduced temperatures," said Dr. Bowen. "The intercollegiate athletic schedule and other special events already scheduled will be maintained as well as they can under reduced temperatures."

Mr. Firstenberg listed four separate sources of bad news for the University's prospects, of getting an adequate supply of No. 6 fuel oil. One was a highly place, reliable official in the Federal Energy Administration," said the financial vice president. "He urged us to do what we could to conserve fuel and consider extending vacations."

Others included a New Jersey State survey of oil suppliers, which found that they expected to fall 25 percent short of anticipated demand. The University checked with its major supplier, New England Petroleum, which confirmed these estimates.

Also, a jobber who supplies Princeton with a small fraction of its oil announced a 10 percent cutback. In other words, no help there.

Compressed Calendar. The University also justified its action by the reasoning that the temporary shutdown would aid Princeton's request for a fair oil ration when the national oil allocation system goes into effect January 1.

The present calendar change should have fairly small effect operations. The reading period would be shortened by several days, the examination period would include a Sunday for the first time in memory, and intersession break, normally generous, would be cut to three days.

Another week would be made up at the end of the spring term, but Commencement Day would still be the same, June 11—provided all works out well from this point.

CHASE ENDS IN DEATH

For Rocky Hill Youth. A high-speed police chase on Route 206 late Monday night ended in death for one of the teenage occupants of a fleeing station wagon and head injuries for another.

James Bates, 14, 8 Cherry Brook Drive, Rocky Hill, was pronounced dead at Princeton Medical Center. The other occupant of the car, Ziad Hamdan of Cherry Hill Road, 15, was admitted to the Center's intensive care unit. Montgomery Township police said that it has not been determined who was driving the car, owned by young Bates's father, James J. Bates.

According to Montgomery police, Ptl. Peter Staats had observed the station wagon parked along side 206 around 11 p.m. and stopped to investigate. It drove off, however, at a high rate of speed with the officer in pursuit.

About a mile down 206 the station wagon crashed into a tree, flipped over and skidded 60 feet. Both youths were hurled from the car. The tragedy took place about a half-mile north of the Mon-

Drained to the extent that in the first ten days of December, we have already had more than the normal amount of precipitation for the entire month.

Nonetheless, the Man reports, we may be in for a bit more Thursday, with a return to partially sunny skies thereafter. The weekend is expected to be clear, with temperatures continuing somewhat above normal.

YOUNG DRIVER HURT

When Car Hits Tree. Timothy J. Schneeweiss, 19, 31 Carnegie Drive, was admitted to Princeton Medical Center early Tuesday morning for treatment of severe lacerations of the head sustained when his car went out of control making a turn off Nassau Street and struck a tree.

He was charged with careless driving by Ptl. James Agins, who reported further charges were pending. Both sides and the entire front end of his care were damaged.

The police investigation reveals that Mr. Schneeweiss was turning left onto Wilton at a speed he couldn't control. Skid marks indicate the car was in the wrong lane.

It swerved to the right, jumped the curb and struck a large tree. Mr. Schneeweiss was out of the car being treated by unknown benefactors when Ptl. Agins arrived around 12:30. Police said that a blood sample was taken and submitted to State Police lab for testing.

Cyclists Hit. There were two accidents in the Township involving cyclists.

Police are still in the process of investigating a mishap Monday morning in which Barbara Bernstein, 31, 44 Western Way, and her daughter Rebedda, 3, were struck at the intersection of Riverside Drive and Prospect Avenue. Their injuries were not serious.

Ptl. Harry Morton made no charges against the driver, Estelle Golomb, 146 Philip Drive.

Stephen J. McCorkle, 29, Magie Apartments, fractured two bones in his leg and sustained lacerations after he was hit by a car early Sunday morning on a private road on the university campus.

Mr. McCorkle told police that he was cutting through the lot by the power plant shortly after midnight when a car turned left, striking his bike. It was raining at the time.

Police identified the driver as Laurence H. Sanford III, 23, 910 Princeton-Kingston Road. Mr. Sanford estimated his speed at the time as between 5-10 miles an hour. Ptl. James Vandermark is still investigating.

Forehand, 15, 77 Red Hill Road, was admitted to the Medical Center for treatment of a broken arm and a forehead laceration that required five sutures after he was hit by a car as he ran across Alexander Street late Saturday night in front of the Princeton Inn dorm.

A companion of his, Peter Hand, 17, of Cranbury, told police that he saw the car coming but thought he could cross the street in time. The driver, Houyuan F Feng, 27, of the Princeton University Dept. of Electrical Engineering, swerved to avoid Hand, police said, and in so doing, struck the victim. Charges by Ptl. Mario Musso are pending.

Driver, 15, Hurt. Richard Olsson, 15, was taken by patrol car to the Medical Center late Friday night following a single car crash on Dodds Lane some 300 feet from Bertrand Drive. Nine sutures were needed to close a laceration of his cheek.

Young Olsson was charged with careless driving and being an unlicensed driver. According to police, he lost control of his station wagon on a curve and struck a pole.

The car, which was totalled, continued on and hit a mailbox in front of 130 Dodds Lane, next a guy wire for another pole and then damaged five trees and the lawn at 118 Dodds before coming to rest.

On Sunday, Keith W. Balcomb, 34, of Belle Mead, was treated at the Medical Center for facial abrasions which he suffered when his car hit the guard rail on Quaker Road.

Mr. Balcomb said that water on the shoulder of the road caused him to lose sight of the lanes. His car went on the shoulder of the road and he was unable to guide it back.

Salvatore LaPlaca, 60, 76½ Linden Lane, was treated for contusions of the chest when he was involved in a collision at 11:25 Saturday morning at Valley Road and Jefferson.

Ptl. David Cromwell ticketed Charles E. Patterson Jr., 40, Lawrenceville Road, with failing to stop. Mr. Patterson told Ptl. Cromwell he looked both ways but never saw the LaPlaca car.

Whiplash. Elizabeth Hadow, 50, of Manville, received lacerations of both knees and a whiplash injury last week when the car in which her husband, Ladislaw, 54, was driving was struck from behind on Route 206 near Lovers Lane. Mr. Hadow had stopped behind a truck making a turn.

The second driver, Thomas Hackett, 33, of Elizabeth, was ticketed for careless driving.

Gasoline? Permit Required

If you're going to store more than one gallon of gasoline in your home, you must have a permit. And Princeton's Fire Chief, Lawrence Dupraz, operating under the National Fire Prevention Code, warned potential hoarders this week that he's going to make that required permit tough to get.

You must prove you need to keep the gasoline, and you must prove to the satisfaction of Princeton's fire department that you are storing it safely. You are prohibited from keeping it at all, if you're going to use it in your car. You may have it only for a snow-blower or lawnmower.

Permits are free. Apply for one at Borough Hall or Township Hall. The fire department will inspect your storage area before granting the permit.

Mr. Guglielmi pleaded guilty to all charges. The complainant for all was Douglas Drummond, the Borough's meter and parking officer.

Four were fined $20 each by Judge Philip Carchman for speeding. They are Annette Hess, 67, 119 Linwood Circle, Rocky Hill; Judith Johnson, 30, 243 Ewing Street; Doris Jeter, 30, Princeton Junction; and Robertson Nathan, 18, 32 Witherspoon Lane.

Also paying $20 fines were: Nancy J. Podhaisky, 20, 340 Brown Hall, and Raymond Ranallo, 19, 437 Ewing Street, both careless driving; Erwin Donath, 58, 40 Balcourt Drive, red light; and George C. Kyle, 21, 15 Blair Hall, failure to yield from a private road or driveway. In addition, Mr. Ranallo was ordered to undergo a re-examination by the motor vehicle division.

Township Court. In Township court last week, Judge Carchman fined Selden D. Illick, 23, Cherry Valley Road, $20 for failure to yield the right of way.

In two criminal charges, George E. Tkacs Jr., 252 N Harrison Street, was fined $35 for being drunk and disorderly, and John Lowrance, 97 Hartley Avenue, $10 for assault.

TWO ARE CHARGED

With Marijuana Possession. Two Princeton men were arrested late Monday night in their car on S. Harrison Street and charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana.

Arrested were William H. Clauser, 20, 194 Washington Road, and Leonard V. Esposito, 19, 9 Harris Road. Each was released after being issued a complaint summons for a court appearance on January 30. Ptl. Mario Musso was the arresting officer.

Domestic Charged. A Trenton resident, Marilyn C. Johnson, 24, working as a domestic in a Stuart Road home, has been charged with larceny by Township Det. Frank Boccanfuso.

She is alleged to have stolen articles from the home where she was employed, including a television set.

Alters Prescriptional. A 30-year old woman from Roosevelt was charged last week by Det. Boccanfuso with altering a prescription.

Police investigated after the manager of Thrift Drugs in the Princeton Shopping Center called to report that a prescription for the treatment of ulcers had apparently been altered to include the dispensing of an amphetamine.

The suspect, who was arrested in the drug store, faces a Township court hearing on Wednesday.

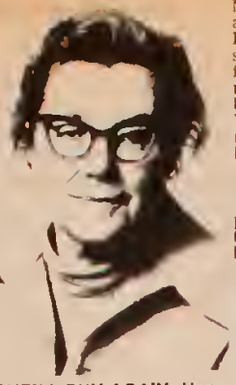
MRS. FOX TO RUN

For School Board. Hannah Fox announced this week that she will run for a second three-year term on the Princeton Regional Board of Education. She holds the one Borough seat on the board that is available this year.

Two seats will be open to Township candidates. Henry Wood, 279 Mt. Lucas Road, has filed for one of the seats. Last week, Dietrich Meyerhofer, 979 Stuart Road, announced that he was seeking the other.. Both incumbents--William Marvel and GGeorge Fitzgerald--have announeed that they will not run.

In announcing her candidacy, Mrs. Fox said she had two reasons for running again. The first is her desire to carry on with the Princeton High School building project and to see through to completion whatever decision the board and community make.



SHE'LL RUN AGAIN: Hannah Fox, president of the Princeton Regional Board of Education, will run for a second term.

The second is her belief that it's important to have experienced board members. The school system is so complex, she explained, that it often takes a new board member a full year to learn the job.

Candidates for the school board must file a petition with the signatures of ten residents by 4 p.m. Thursday, December 27. Petitions are available at the Stony Brook Administration building on Stockton Street. After they have been completed, they should be returned there

IDA ON AGENDA

For Township. Protests by the Citizens in Search of Peace against granting a building permit to the Institute for Defense Analysis will be aired Monday when Township Committee meets at 8 p.m.

Officials of IDA are being asked to come, Mayor Jay Bleiman said this week. In a detailed letter to Committee, the Citizens expressed concern that IDA might be violating international treaties, and declared that IDA is a problem beeuase its work is so secret that municipality cannot know what kind of organization it's granting a building permit.

"I appreciate these concerns," Mayor Bleiman said, "They have a right to raise these questions and Committee has a responsibility to try and answer."

The mayor said that committee; its counsel, Gordon Griffin and the building inspector, Joseph Griffin have found no grounds on which Committee can intervene to prevent IDA from getting its permit

STATE SAYS 3 PLANTS

For Regional Sewer. State environmental officials have come out in favor of a three-plant sewer system instead of the one-plant system favored by the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority.

The state Department of Environmental Protection informed the federal Environmental Protection Agency of its decision this Monday. George Freidel, acting director of the state's Division of Water Resources, said the hoped-for meeting of federal and state officials with members of the Authority will be held in Princeton next Wednesday, December 19. A meeting with federal officials has been urgently sought by both of Princeton's mayors for several months.

Mr. Freidal said the two proposals will be discussed at the meeting. He expressed the hope that federal officials

INTRUDER NABBED

In Foulke Hall. A 19-year old Princeton youth was nabbed early Friday morning inside Foulke Hall on the University campus by students living in the dorm and held for University Security police.

Darrel Brooks of John Street was later turned over to Borough police who charged him with breaking and entering and larceny. Chief Michael Carnevale said that Brooks broke into two student rooms in the dormitory, taking $40 from one. H efaces a court hearing January 16.

Patrolmen James Agins and Joseph Wilhelm investigated.

Mugger Arrested. Joseph Richardson, 28, Gordon Avenue, Lawrenceville, wanted by police for assault and robbrey of a student on campus last month, was arrested Friday afternoon by Ptl David Alston and Ptl. Victor Fasanella on Nassau Street.

Det. Timothy Huizing who had been conducting the investigation of the robbery near Firestone Library, signed the complaint against Richardson. He was later released in his own recognizance and was scheduled to appear in court this Wednesday.

Vandalism, Too. Someone is working harder than ever to take money from parking meters, observed Chief Carnevale.

He reported that three double meters had been removed from their metal posts by the use of a pipe cutter in three separate lots.

The first theft was discovered at 8:45 Thursday morning in the Witherspoon lot. A subsequent check revealed that double meters—valued at $75 per meter—had been removed from lots on Tuland Street and Park Place.

Borough police arrested two Point Pleasant men last month and charged them with using a key to steal thousands of dollars from parking meters.

Police report that the thief broke a window to reach inside and unlock a door. The theft was reported by Principal Eugene Biringer who told police that nothing else was disturbed. Ptl. Renn Kaminski investigated.

A group of teenagers entered the club and broke lanps and furniture around 1 a.m. Sunday morning. Det. Douglas Watson, the Borough's juvenile officer, is investigationg and Chief Carnevale reports the police expect to make arrests soon.

ON RECREATION AGENDA

..Election of Officers. Election of new officers for 1974 is on the agenda of the Joint Recreation Board which will meet Tuesday at 8:15 in Township Hall.

R. Donald Barr, executive director of the Recreation Department, will also comment on programs planned for the future and give a budge report.

In executive session, the board, Mr. Barr said, will review its fees and charges for the swimming pools, tennis and paddle tennis courts.

"It's a good thing to review them periodically he said, "to see if they are accomplishing what they were set up to do."

Fees are designed to pay both the capital and operating costs of the two new paddle tennis courts and yearly operating costs of the pool and tennis complexes.

The board will also discuss what consequences the longer holiday closing by the University will have on two programs the Recreation Department runs on campus—its Saturday morning Dillon Gym basketball and Jadwin Gym programs.

Mr. Barr commented that the University has "given us all the support we can expect."

BEYOND THE CURTAIN

McCarter, as Star. The theatre as star attractions is the theme of a pictorial history of McCarter Theatre which will have its opening night this Sunday in a public reception at the theatre starting at 7 and continuing until 9

"A Glimpse Beyond the Curtain" has been sponsored and arranged by the Princeton Art Association Exhibits in the display are from the William Seymour Theatre Collection of Princeton University's Firestone Library.

This is the first attempt to illustrate the history of McCarter Theatre and is the first joint porject between the PAA and Princeton University, owner of McCarter Theatre.

McCarter was built for the University's Triangle Club and Triangle opened the theatre in February, 1930, with a production called "The Golden Dog." The building was named for Thomas N. C'Carter, a Princeton graduate of the Class of 1888, whose gift of $250,000 was instumental in ground-breaking

Since 1930, McCarter has been the home of various acting companies, it has been a concert-hall, ballet theatre, movie theatre, and of course, the continuing home of Triangle Club. Both "Our Town" and "Bus Stop" had their world premieres at McCarter.

As a comment on McCarter's function as concert-hall, there will be music at Sunday night's affair Lonnie Sue Johnson, artist and musician, will lead a trio in the performance of chamber music. The trio will play music by Beethoven becuase Sunday is his birthday

The Art Association has drawn from McCarter's history in the design of its invitation to Sunday's opening. It is a playbill autographed by Paul Robeson and used for his McCarter appearance as Othello in 1942.

Elizabeth Monath, PAA's exhibition chairman conceived the idea for the exhibit and Ruth Stewart of PAA was chairman of the mounting committee. Mary Ann Jenson, curator of the William Seymour Theatre Collection at Firestone, has lent the memorabilia, including playbills and posters going back to "The Golden Dog", models of stage sets, designs for costumes, documents and photographs Marie Miller, McCarter's costumer, has provided several actual costumes

Some Day, Some Year, Energy Will Be Plentiful

BUILDING A BETTER BOTTLE: John Tiscione of Mercerville, a foremen at the Plasma Physics Laboratory at Princeton University's Forrestal Campus, inspects a water-cooled copper coil which will be used in an experimental step on the road to controlled nuclear fusion. A combination of coils will create a donut-shaped, electro-magnetic field. The magnetic field becomes, in effect, the bottle in which a plasma state can be achieved. It is in this state, under high temperatures, that positively charged ions of hydrogen can fuse into helium, releasing an enormous amount of energy in the process. One of the main problems being tackled at the Plasma Physics Laboratory: how to keep the "bottle" from leaking.

In the cold, dark days of the energy crisis, the Plasma Physics Laboratory on Princeton University's James Forrestal Campus is no different from any other place. Hallway lights are turned off; technicians stare into computer screens in otherwise darkened rooms; temperatures are in the 60s; notices on the bulletin boards provide information on car pooling, and invite employees to suggest ideas for energy conservation.

Perhaps the only difference in the Plasma Physics Laboratory (PPL) is the realization that the world's energy problems do not end with lower temperatures and darker hallways. PPL's research effort is aimed at the development of what many scientists believe is the ultimate solution to the world's energy problems—controlled nuclear fusion.

PPL is one of a handful of energy-related research activities at Princeton. Others deal with combustion research; geo-thermal energy; energy requirements of transportation forms; and domestic uses of energy. As the full dimensions of the fuel shortage and energy crisis become known to the general public, scientists working on these diverse research projects offer one common observation: solutions of any sort will not be immediate.

No one knows this better than the more than 400 scientists, engineers, technicians, researchers and machinists working in practical isolation out on the northeast corner of the Forrestal Campus. To achieve controlled nuclear fusion—the process of combining positively charged hydrogen nuclei, forming helium and releasing enormous amounts of energy—will require an expensive and time-consuming effort.

Sitting in his darkened office, Dr. Melvin B. Gottlieb, Director of the PPL and Professor of Astrophysical Sciences, said a "massive effort costing billions of dollars" would be needed.

Continuing Problem. The current fuel shortage may prove a catalyst for such an effort, just as the launching of Sputnik sparked the space program. "But the energy problem will be one of much longer duration," Dr. Gottlieb said. "When we landed a man on the moon the space race was all over."

The race for fusion energy is not against the Russians, however, who are cooperating with scientists at Princeton and three other laboratories in the United States in the quest for feasible solutions, but against time. Dr. Gottlieb predicted that a scientific solution to the problem of fusing hydrogen isotopes, deuterium and tritium, in the laboratory might be found by the end of this decade—"if everything went well," in his words.

"But we are barely underway in attacking the technological problems," he said. "These problems must be solved in a commercially feasible way. My most optimistic date for a solution to the scientific and technological problems is 1995—if we are lucky."

Plus, he continued, "there's another factor common to any new system. Say you know exactly how to do something. It still takes 10 or 12 years to build enough plants to make a significant difference in terms of the national energy needs."

Other Research. Concluded Dr. Gottlieb: "The energy business is beyond the comprehension of most people."

Other Princeton energy research ranges from the practical to the far-out. Researchers in the University's Center for Environmental Studies have spent months monitoring the energy consumption of the homeowners in the planned community of Twin Rivers in East Windsor. Among the findings: Double glass insulating windows costing $500 result in only meager savings on the fuel bill.

Professor George F. Pinder of Civil and Geological Engineering is studying geothermal energy—the energy existing in the form of hot water and steam beneath the earth's surface. Power companies in California, New Zealand, Italy and Mexico have tapped this energy as a means of driving their steam-powered generators.

But application has been limited because companies are reluctant to build large plants on top of an energy source that might last only a short time. "We are trying to build a mathematical simulator that would allow us to model the system, based on physical equations plus data from the field, and predict a given source's longevity," said Professor Pinder.

Wankel Research. Ralph Kowalik, a senior from Somerville, is doing his thesis on the performance testing of a Wankel or rotary engine using hydrogen as a fuel. "When we run out of fossil fuels, we will still need a portable energy source, he said. "One might be hydrogen, which we could make from water by using excess energy from nuclear power plants."

"Burning hydrogen in a standard, reciprocating engine causes knocking and pre-ignition," said Mr. Kowalik. "It may be better in a rotary engine." That is what he intends to find out.

One problem with hydrogen as a portable fuel, the senior acknowledged, is that it is potentially dangerous and its low density makes it somewhat bulky. Irvin Glassman, Professor of Aerospace Sciences and Director of the Center for Environmental Studies, is studying the efficiencies and emission products of a variety of hydrocarbon combustion processes.

One solution to the hydrogen problems, he said, would be to convert the hydrogen into methane, natural gas in effect, and methanol, a liquid. Compared to gasoline, the combustion characteristics of methanol are "cleaner, but not as energetic," Dr. Glassman said. Whether it would be economically and environmentally suitable as a fuel is something to be studied.

NIXON TO RESIGN?

Udall Thinks So. Stewart Udall, the former Secretary of the Interior to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, spoke last week in Princeton University's Whig Hall on the subject, "The Environment and the Energy Crisis." The audience of 90 students, faculty and townspeople heard a good deal more than that.

On his subject, Mr. Udall called Americans "the energy pigs of the world."

Somewhat off his subject, the former Arizona congressman predicted that the energy crisis plus the resulting economic recession he foresees will lead to the resignation of President Nixon. "Gerald Ford will be President by the spring," he said.

Mr. Udall termed the past 20 years of high technological, industrial and economic growth as a "joy ride" for America. "We have come to the end," he said in reference to the current energy crisis.

"By our gluttony, we are extinguishing the opportunity for half of the people of the world to enjoy anything like the standard of living we have today," he said.

Thank the Arabs. "We're in over our heads and we're going to have to make adjustments," Mr. Udall said. "It's going to mean big changes in our economy, in our transportation, and in the way we live."

Mr. Udall has been preaching that message for years, and in the fuel crisis, he saw an emergency situation that might encourage more Americans to follow his advice. "The only prudent thing for us to do is to thank the Arabs, to let them go their way and for the U.S. to grow self sufficient."

One step to reach such a state, Mr. Udall suggested, would be for Congress to prohibit the production of cars

A Waste of Personal Energy.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Governor Cahill announced that last week was to be "Transportation Week" and urged everyone to use public transportation as much as possible. Thinking this was a good idea, I decided to take the bus to school instead of going by car. The school I refer to is Mercer County Community College, and Mercer Metro (a bus company) had thoughtfully provided an hourly service to the college's West Windsor campus.

In order to attend a 9 a.m. class, it turned out that I had to catch a bus at Palmer Square at 7:10 and travel in a direction that was right-angled to where I wanted to go. This took me to the train station in Trenton in about 40 minutes, where I waited for the connecting bus for Mercer College to arrive at 8:10. The bus continued into Hamilton Township and finally to West Windsor arriving at the College at 8:40.

It takes slightly over 15 minutes by car from Palmer Square to M.C.C., and one and a half hours by public transportation. The car is not a fair comparison, and I use it only to indicate the rather short distance involved. A more apt comparison is that in the time it takes to get from Princeton to the Community College, were I to catch a bus in the opposite direction, I would be in the Port Authority Terminal, New York

Soccer Team Ignored.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am disappointed that you devote so much writing in your paper to the mediocre Princeton University football team while you have totally ignored the successes of the Princeton soccer team (7-2-3) and their new coach, Bill Muse. You should give more support to this exciting sport which is the most popular sport in the rest of the world and is up-and-coming in this country, with some recent Ivy League soccer games having drawn over 10,000 fans.

STEVEN FELDMAN
197 Witherspoon Street

Editor's Note: TOWN TOPICS, which devotes more space to reporting sports played by schools in the community than it does to University athletics, bases its coverage of the latter on the interest of townspeople as indicated by their attendance. Inevitably, the Tigers' mediocre football team outdrew the successful soccer team by many thousand each Saturday. Lack of coverage notwithstanding, first-year coach Bill Muse did an excellent job with the University soccer team.

Bazaar Makes $700 "Gift to Our Town"

Ajile—pronounced "A-jeeley"—means "gift to our town." The gift to the town last weekend was the two-day Ajile Bazaar and dance presentation held at the Princeton Youth Center, combining display and sale of art and crafts from Africa and Latin American countries with creative dance of the Center's young Ajile dancers.

The event brought $700 into the Center's operating budget. The next fund-raiser for the Center is the spaghetti dinner to be held this Saturday from noon until 6 p.m. The Center and its board are working on a series of fund-raising events to sustain an increased staff.

Both evenings of Ajile dance were standing-room-only, which means about 275 people at the two performances. Saturday's Bazaar, with its sale of African and Latin art objects and clothing, and its "restaurant," drew about 300 people, according to Leonard Brown, Center director.

The Ajile Bazaar was created and co-ordinated by Terri Austin of the Center's staff. This is the first year for the affair and Center officials hope to make it annual.

HOLIDAY EXHIBITS

At Gallery of Fine Art. The holiday exhibition at the Princeton Gallery of Fine Art includes a melange of work by gallery artists. Variety is the theme. The work on display includes new pieces, often new approaches, and also familiar pieces, providing interesting stylistic contrasts for the artists displayed.

Sculpture by Sahl Swarz is being exhibited at the gallery for the first time. Although much of his work is massive and designed for major display, the small bronzes embody the same sense of power and mass that exist in the larger works. Some of the pieces rely on human and animal forms for their source while others are ventures into pure spatial interaction. Material and form combine happily in all of Swarz's work and are intensely dramatic in their effect

Sculpture by Dorothea Greenbaum and James Kearns are also on display.

A large oil by Gregorio Prestopino is part of a collection of new paintings by this artist. In his latest work he has continued to develop familiar themes but alters them in carefully constructed harmonies. Colors have been softened and brushwork and tonal juxtapositions have been muted to create an overall sense of serenity.

TREE FORMS: The gentleness of curving tree branches is softly suggested in this watercolor by Frances McIlvain. It's on view at The Loft.

New works by Wolf Kahn accompany earlier landscapes demonstrating the evolution of this artist's very pleasing palette. While the hues remain constant, he has changed his color values, using a stronger palette to create a more intense color dynamism.

Werner Drewes, Tom George, George Greene, Reginald Neal and Charles Wells are among the many artists included Media displayed includes graphics, oils, acrylics, drawings and plexiglas

At Gallery 100. A large collection of crafts by many different artists are included in the December display at Gallery 100. Approaches range from traditional styles to the use of unusual techniques to create new and often exciting effects. Pottery by Marion Levinston-Weiss includes several of the works that were displayed earlier at the State Museum in Trenton.

Collages by Czech artist Dosalova are romantic figure creations which are made rich-looking by the combination of gilt surface and sumptuous materials.

A collection of deftly done paintings by Anne Packard are featured. Small enough to be considered miniatures, paintings include gentle seascapes, boat studies and some landscape. Ms. Packard uses a gentle palette and works in a hyper-realistic fashion that serves her subject well. Paintings by other gallery artists include works by Rhoda Kassof, Greta Greenfield and Ken McIndoe.

At University Art Museum. "Twentieth Century Photographs, Landscape and Portraiture" is a small but selective exhibit now featured at the Morrison Gallery. Although it does not presume to be a truly balanced presentation of the 20th century photograph, the show manages to display the great ranges of photographic effect that can be created with similar subjects.

Under the theme of portraiture, the use of the figure in the photograph attains many different dimensions. The figure as the subject is contrasted with the figure as an element in a visual narration and, again, the figure is shown as the function of a two dimensional design.

Landscape is shown in its literary aspects as well as an examination of texture and pattern and the use of an object to create a mood. Landscape as a vehicle for the exploration of spatial relationship is also considered. Major photographers of the century are included in the exhibit. Among them, Edward Weston, Ansel Adams, Harry Callahan and Walker Evans.

Accompanying the multi-faceted display of the Rubens painting, "The Leopards", is a gallery filled with 17th century Dutch and Flemish paintings. While it stands alone as a representation of the period, the collection is also interesting as both a contrast and complement to the major Rubens work. Viewing the Rubens in conjunction with a large grouping of his own contemporaries enables one to achieve a multi-leveled understanding of the featured work as well as a rich impression of the era.

At The Guild Gallery. All manner of media and style can be seen at the Guild Gallery in the Montgomery Shipping Center. Pottery that is functional and pottery that is decorative is accompanied by paintings, prints, drawings and sculpture.

Metal constructions by Mike Rocco are notable. A bronze fountain including a water-wheel and interestingly sculpted forms entertains aurally and visually.

AC Gallery, Kingston. Paintings, photographs and graphics combine for the winter exhibit. Robert Sakson celebrates the local landscape in watercolor paintings that are well composed, realistic representations of his subject. Woodcuts and wood engravings by Peter Vince feature a new series of wee animals, stylized and entertaining.

Graphics by Jacob Landau include interpretive portrait studies of Mark Twain, Lincoln and Jefferson as well as some prints from his "Tales of Hoffman" series.

Classical oriental paintings by Midori Ellentuck, oils by Robert Raphael and photographs by Brinton Whitall are included.

At The Artisan. A large collection of functional crafts including weaving, pottery and hand-blown glass can be seen. A major hanging by weaver Gladys Hoisington is a creation of plastic macrame that effectively combines the textural and reflective qualities of the material. Paintings, prints and drawings are also displayed.

—Helen Schwartz

CHING ART DISPLAYED

At Princeton Museum. "Studies in Connoisseurship," an exhibition of 41 Chinese paintings from the Arthur M. Sackler collection in New York and Princeton, is on display at The Art Museum, Princeton University.

The Sackler collection of Chinese paintings includes masterpieces from the fourteenth through the nineteenth centuries. Its unique strength, however, lies in 15 important works of painting and calligraphy by Tao-chi (1641-ca. 1710), a Ming loyalist, half Taoist, half Buddhist, a wild "mountain man," and the leading individualist master of the early Ch'ing period.

The Sackler group now constitutes the largest and most significant holding of authenticated works by this major Ch'ing dynasty painter. For comparative purposes, the Sackler collection also includes a modern forgery album of six landscape leaves in Tao-chi's style, as well as copies of two Tao-chi works.

In addition to Tao-chi, 23 other Chinese artists are represented in the Sackler collection. Thirty-five of the exhibited paintings are at Princeton, six are on loan from the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York.

The exhibition will be at Princeton until February 3. The Art Museum is open free to the public Tuesdays through Saturdays, 10 to 4 and Sundays, 1 to 5.

PERUVIAN ART SHOWN

At Tar Pot. The Tar Pot at 195 Nassau Street has an exhibit and sale of Peruvian Pre-Columbian Art. Some of the pieces are over 2,000 years old and include not only vases, but statuary, jewelry, and objects used in every day life.

In connection with the exhibit, a number of Indian objects of a later period will be offered - among them a bundle of poison darts and their poison well, a feather headress, paint pots and unusually decorated vases and pots. An authenticated collection such as this offered for sale is quite unusual. The source of supply of such art has almost entirely disappeared because of stringent regulations countries have put on the export of items of national interest.

RUTGERS TOPS TIGERS

In Basketball, 62-55. All that noise last March wasn't just the wind. Princeton basketball fans were roaring that their team, a 51-47 victor over Rutgers at New Brunswick and runner-up in the Ivy League, had been slighted when the Scarlet was asked to the National Invitation Tournament and the Tigers were ignored.

Although the cast of characters had changed slightly since last season, the Scarlet proved its right to claim superiority when the two teams met again Tuesday in Jadwin Gymnasium. An unbelievably bad first half cost Princeton dearly, and a rally in the final period fell short, the visitors winning, 62 to 55.

So bad was the Orange and Black in the opening 20 minutes that Armond Hill and Andy Rimol, who have been averaging in double figures, could claim only three points between them. The Tigers hit on just one of the first ten shots, as Rutgers found pressing tactics and a zone defense worked greatly to its advantage.

With ten minutes gone, the visitors were in front by 14-9, and by the time the round ended, they had a 13-point margin. Hill, in early foul trouble with three well before the intermission, was benched for the first time in first-half action, as was his backcourt mate, sophomore Mickey Steurer.

Other Sports on Pages 55-59

Princeton began to erase the visitors' advantage when play resumed with Rimol, Hill and Joe Vavricka all finding the mark. Rutgers' lead melted slowly, the Tigers finally closing the gap when O'Neill stole the ball, fed Barnes Hauptfuhrer and the 6-7 sophomore rebounded his own shot to put the Tigers in front, 46-45.

The lead changed hands four times in the next three minutes, but the Scralet never trailed again, after moving in front at 49-48. Its all-court press continued to bother the Tigers, and both Hauptfuhrer and Hill fouled out before the final whistle.

SKATERS LOSE TO PENN

Beaten 4 to 1. Although Princeton's hockey team outshot an opponent (25-24) for the first time this season, the Tigers were soundly defeated by Pennsylvania Tuesday night on the Quaker's ice. The 4-1 loss levelled the team's Ivy record at 1-1, and dropped it below the .500 mark overall, 2-3.

Now in first place in the early standings, Penn scored three times before Princeton averted a shutout. The opening round was scoreless, the home team then moving out to a 2-0 lead by the end of the second period.

Penn added another before Walt Snickenberger connected on a power play for the Orange and Black. The tally at 10:58 was assisted by center Mark Stuckey and defenseman Jim Damberger. Twenty-five penalties were called in the rough contest.

HUN EASY WINNER

Over Delbarton, 64-41. Combing a stingy defense which never allowed its opponent to score more than 11 points a quarter, and the scoring of Biff Hollowell (18 points) and Tony Trani (15), the Hun School basketball team won its home opener Tuesday afternoon over Delbarton, 64-41.

Brian Logue added 10 points for Hun, while the two other starters, Dave Clark and Brent Bystrzycki combined for 15. Hun is 2-0, Delbarton 0-1

MUSIC TO BANK BY

Christmas Songs at 1st National. A musical Christmas card to the Princeton-area community is scheduled all next week at The First National Bank of Princeton's main office, Nassau and Witherspoon streets. Vocal groups from Princeton High School and Westminster Choir College will serenade lunch hour shoppers, strollers and visitors in the bank's lobby.

Members of the Princeton High School Choir, under the direction of William Trego, will present songs of the seasnn from noon to 1 on Tuesday and again from 11:30 to 12:30 next Thursday.

Monday's musical presentation from noon to 1 will feature the Collegium Musicum of Westminster Choir College, directed by Frances Poe. This 15-voice ensemble will accompany themselves on Early Baroque instruments.

Westminster's 40 member Touring Choir will perform fro noon to 1 on Wednesday under the baton of Joseph Flummerfelt, and the week-long musicale will conclude with Westminster's Chamber Singers directed by Dennis Strock Friday, December 21, also from noon to 1.

This is the second consecutive year that the First National Bank of Princeton has joined with local musical groups in a mid-day presentation of holiday music. "We invite everyone to stop in at the bank during these performances to share with us the timeless music of the season as performed by these talented high school and college students," said John H Hoff III, president of First National.

OFFICERS ELECTED

By Chamber of Commerce. James T. Robson of the Shell Chemical Co. has been elected to a second term as President of the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce Professional and Civic Council.

Other officers elected by the Board of Directors include: Mrs. Audrey Short of Audrey Short, Inc., senior vice president; Samuel J. deTuro of Woodwinds, Inc.; William Rennhenner, Princeton Photo Process, Daniel Goldenson, D R Goldenson & Co.; and Jon Thiesmeyer, Western Electric Co., all vice presidents

The Chamber of Commerce also said its 1974 "Program of Work" will be announced at its annual meeting January 26.

JEWELRY FIRM EXPANDS

To Lawrence Plaza. Hamilton Jewelers of Trenton has opened a second store in the Lawrence Plaza shopping center, on Route 1 in Lawrence Township.

The new store will have 5,000 square feet of selling area, with a contemporary layout and interior design. Trees will highlight the inside front of the store, said Irving Siegel, chairman of the board. The firm's main store is located at North Broad and Hannver Streets in Trenton.

Mr. Siegel said his son, Martin Siegel, would manage the new store, while he would continue to direct the Trenton store, which recently underwent extensive remodeling. Hamilton Jewelers has been in business 61 years. Mr. Siegel acquired the firm in 1927.

To celebrate its opening the new store has nn display some unusual collections of jewelry and porcelain. Mr. Siegel noted a $45,000 collection of pieces which were part of $4 million worth of jewels sold recently by Jane Fonda, the actress and activist. The pieces include a brooch, earrings and ring set with fine acquamarines and diamonds.

Porcelains by Boehm, Cybus, Burgues and others are also being displayed. Mr. Siegel described them as one of a kind treasures from famous collectors who have never before shown these limited editions.

Award Winner. Also on display are pieces from the Mexican collection of Lunt Galleries, which Hamilton Jewelers distribute, figurines, and sterling holloware.

Both the Retail Jewelers of America and the Reader's Digest have cited Hamilton Jewelers for excellence in merchandising.

BELT SYSTEM PRAISED

By VW Dealer, Robert J. Feldman, vice president of Princeton Volkswagen Ltd., Route 206, has applauded Volkswagen's decision to begin a year-long highway test of its new automatic seat belt system.

According to Mr. Feldman, the new passive restraint system which provides the protection of three-point seat belts with none of the buckling up inconvenience most people associate with manually controlled belts - is not only "better than air bags" but much less expensive. He estimated that VW's system would cost far less than what General Motors is charging for air bags (about $220) as optional equipment on its new 1974 cars

Unlike air bags, he said, VW's system will restrain front seat occupants in any type of impact or panic stop, even at low speeds. Air bags, he pointed out, provide no protection at all in low-speed impacts and are usually inoperative in anything but collisions involving the front end

"The best thing about the system," the local VW official said, "is that it takes the responsibility of fastening seat belts out of the hands of passengers. In other words, it protects them with seat belts all the time automatically."

News Of The CHURCHES

CARILLON TO PLAY

For Carol Sing. An old fashioned Christmas carol sing will be held in the church yard of Trinity Church on Saturday at 4 p.m. Carols will be played from the carillon in the church tower prior to the sing.

The Princeton University Brass Ensemble, directed by Scott Butler, will open the singing with a brass fanfare. Interspersed with the singing of the traditional Christmas carols, the Ensemble will play sever familiar liturgical works, closing with the "Twelve Days of Christmas."

Hot cocoa and cookies will be served afterward in the Parish Hall. The public is invited.

CHURCH FESTIVAL SET...

At United Methodist. The second church school festival of the Princeton United Methodist Church will be held Sunday. At the morning service the Cherub Choir will sing under the direction of Mrs. Charles Simms.

The adult choir, directed by Earl Cunningham, will sing Alice Parker's "Carols to Play and Sing." Percussionists will include Mary E. Stewart, Wilda Eicher, Edward Eicher, Jr. and John MacDonald.

At 6 p.m. groups will meet for community carol singing at the various nursing homes and Lloyd Terrace. These groups will be led by Mrs. John MacDonald, Mrs. Charles Simms and Earl Cunningham.

NOON RECITALS TO END

Next Wednesday. The series of Advent Noon recitals sponsored by the Nassau Presbyterian Church will conclude next Wednesday from 12:10 to 12:40 in the Chambers Street sanctuary.

A variety of choral, solo and instrumental works have been offered in the series. Performers have included Jean Thomas and Evelyn Bloom, sopranos; Jane Smith, contralto; Michael Myers, trumpet; and Thomas McBeth, organist. Advent and Christmas music from all periods has been featured.

Following the recitals, lunch is served in the Social Hall of the Chambers Street building. The cost is $1.25.

MONK TO LECTURE

On Catholic Theology. The Rev. Gerard Bekes, OSB, a Hungarian Benedictine monk and the Dean of the Theological Faculty at Pontificio, Rome, will lecture on "Recent Developments in Roman Catholic Theology" Thursday, December 13, at 7:45 p.m. in the main lounge of the Princeton Theological Seminary Campus Center.

Active in the ecumenical movement, Dean Bekes is the Rome-based coordinator of the Catholic-Protestant Rome Seminars, which bring clergymen of both faiths to Rome for joint study. He is also editor of the Hungarian Catholic Review.

His visit to this country is sponsored by a number of United Presbyterian pastors who met in Home as participants in the 1972 Catholic-Protestant Rome Seminar.

BULLETIN NOTES

The women of Princeton United Methodist Church will sponsor a Christmas Party at Lloyd Terrace Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Sally Rhodes and Yvonne MacDonald are chairmen of the event and will lead the Cherub Choir to entertain the residents.

Dr. Raymond Gray, director of the United Presbyterian Church's Medical Mission Fund, and Dr. Forrest Eggleston, professor of surgery at the Ludhiana Christian Medical College, will attend the Nassau Presbyterian Church brunch this Sunday at 12:30 in the Palmer Square building. Dr. Gray will give a brief slide presentation on the medical mission projects being supported by the church. Dr. Eggleston will then discuss his special mission areas in the Indian state of Punjab, where the church supports a large medical center. Those in the medical profession or considering entering it are particularly invited.

Community Christmas caroling in Pennington will begin Sunday at 7 p.m. at St. James Church, and then move to the First United Presbyterian Church. The group will then move on to other churches, accompanied by the Presbyterian's Brass Choir.

which get less than 25 miles per gallon of gasoline. The initiative for such a move should come from the next President—"whoever he is a year from now."

Mr. Udall's prediction that President Nixon will resign is based on the following thinking: The U.S. will enter the worst recession in the post-war period" because of the energy shortage; Republican Congressmen will feel the heat as they begin campaigning for re-election; and the business community will add their voices against the President.

THE EPI MODEL 100
A new entry in the loudspeaker field.
Many people like us better than what's going around.*
And it comes out here:
* "EPI is a new name to add to the list of speaker manufacturers. And the Model 100 certainly is a fine opening number... If the performance of the Model 100 is representative of the others, as it probably is, then we can look forward to a popular new line of speakers. It puts out surprisingly big sound... with exceptionally fine dispersion and excellent transient response...and ranks high on our list of bookshelf speakers."

EIGHT WOODEN ICE CREAM chairs are a real find from The Recyclers Shop

Where....

Where else ...

But at COUNTRY ANTIQUES

Can you find....

Still life oil painting of fruit on the order of Raphael Peale Although unsigned, "attributed to" usually accompanies a Peale. This was found in a local attic along with our two excellent pieces of calligraphy.

Pairs of Arrowback, Pennsylvania Fiddleback and French 18th century chairs as well as several bamboo Windsors, and a possible Shaker Ladderback

Coin serving spoons, some New Jersey and Philadelphia

Among our brain-storms a rooster weathervane, a tin man in puppet form, a Meerschaum pipe, a French doll which reminds one of Marilyn Monroe, a copper foot warmer of considerable age and charm, and as always Delaware Valley redware and stoneware in interesting shapes and ecoration.

Live a Little

If a great contemporary house on a hilltop with a view from every room is part of your dreams, come with us to see this house now. Offered for sale to settle an estate, this type house is rarely listed, having been custom built with flair and care.

Presently two bedrooms and two baths on the main floor, there is a lower floor, above ground level, with considerable space and a full bath; so expansion for more bedrooms is not an expensive undertaking.

We love it, and so will you.

THE NUTCRACKER AS GUEST: Herr Drosselmeyer (Ralph Higgins) holds the nutcracker shaped like a fierce dragoon, which he has given as a Christmas gift to the young girl, Clara. Later, of course, Clara will dream that the nutcracker is a splendid prince and when little girls dream like that anything can happen. This is a scene from last year's "Nutcracker," but it will look just the same this Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Higgins will again be Drosselmeyer, and two new dancers will alternate in the role of Clara -- Nina McPherson and Judy Blewener.

Ballet Society Set to Give Its 10th "Nutcracker"

It's Christmas Eve. The home of Dr Silberhaus in the toy city of Nuremberg, is ablaze with candles and music and the high excited chatter of young voices.

Soon the family friend, Herr Drosselmeyer, will make his dramatic appearance, bringing with him what is surely one of the best-known toys in the world of Christmas-the wooden military figure carved by a Nuremberg toymaker in the shape of a nutcracker.

This year, for the tenth year in a row, the young and old of Princeton will once again watch and listen to Tschaikovsky's "Nutcracker," ballet as produced in its entirety by the Princeton Ballet Society and McCarter Theatre

"The Nutcracker" will be given this Saturday at 2:30 and 7:30 and this Sunday at 3 in McCarter Theatre. The best selection of tickets is available for the Saturday evening performance.

On Saturday, December 29, the dancers will travel to Trenton for their third annual appearance in "The Nutcracker" in the War Memorial auditorium at 3 and 7 p.m.

Old Hands. When a production is mounted every year for a decade, it takes on its own traditions and acquires its own list of veteran performers. Mice, for example. They are the smallest and youngest of the dancers and there are veterans in the cast today who were mice back in the mid-1960's when it all began.

Dorena D'Ippolito, a mouse in 1966, progressed through the ranks as soldier, child, and is this year leader of the soldiers and one of the angels in Act II. Her mother, Renita, is the inimitable Silberhaus maid

Bonnie Finfer, who was a mouse ten years ago, is now the lead dancer in the "Polichinelle" divertissement Dancers in "Polichinelle" are always members of the Princeton Regional Ballet Junior Company, and Miss Finfer is no exception.

This year, for the fourth time, Dodie Pettit will dance the solo role of the Sugar Plum Fairy, perhaps recalling as she performs the graceful pas de deux with her Cavalier, David Anderson, that she started in "The Nutcracker" ten years ago as a Candy Cane. Miss Pettit is reportedly looking forward to being A Parent in the Christmas Eve party scene in Act I when she is too old to be the Sugar Plum Fairy but that day is far away indeed.

Incidentally--another member of the family, Ruth Pettit, is costume supervisor for the production. Her granddaughter, Stephanie Chase, is a mouse.

New Rat. In recent years, the Rat King has been Carter McAdams, a Princeton University student He has now graduated, and this year's Rat King is Willie Bonner, a new graduate of Trenton State who still appears in the college's Modern Dance Group. He is a student at the Princeton Ballet Society, and according to advance notice from rehearsals, executes a perfectly splendid death scene when he is vanquished in the duel with the Nutcracker.

Of Mr. Higgins' Drosselmeyer--what can be said! He first performed the part in 1966 and has done it every year since. A research engineer at Western Electric, he became involved with "The Nutcracker" because of his daughter's interest in the dance.

Although he knows every move and gesture, and may indeed dream about "The Nutcracker" quite as vividly as Clara herself, he attends over 25 hours of rehearsals each year, working with the ever-changing cast of children ("It keeps us old goals young," he says.)

The Scene. "Nutcracker" sets, by Stephen Hendrickson, are carefully stored from year to year. Costumes have to be replaced, but they are remade according to the original designs. (Herr Drosselmeyer's famous cape is still the original.)

Behind the scenes are Audree Estey, director and founder of the Princeton Ballet Society, and Lila Brunner, on the Society's faculty, who have choreographed "Nutcracker." Mrs Estey is artistic director of the Princeton Regional Ballet, which is maintained by the Ballet Society, and Mrs. Brunner is ballet mistress of the Regional company.

Wendell Estey, who was Drosselmeyer in 1965, went back in the role for one performance last year when Mr Higgins was ill. Mr. Estey rehearses those Act I soldiers and supervises the tapes that release the music of a full symphony orchestra to accompany the ballet. Lowell Achziger of McCarter's staff, is in charge of lights.

Two to a Role. "The Nutcracker" always has double casts, to make sure that each talented young dancer has an opportunity--and to keep them all from getting too tired.

This year, the lead role of Clara will be danced by Nina McPherson (she's the daughter of Princeton's school superintendent) and Judy Biewener. Jamie Ruderman will be brother Fritz--only one in that role. Jan Leviton will be Dr Silberhaus and Christina Klotz and Judith Leviton will share the role of Frau Silberhaus.

There are about 150 mice, soldiers, rats, toy soldiers, snowflakes and their monarchs, angels, pages, and all the sweetmeats--or perhaps, considering the familiarity of Tschaikovsky's music, suitemeats"--of the Divertissements: Hot Chocolate, Coffee, Candy Canes, Marzipan, Polichinelles, Chinese and, of course, Flowers.

Herr Drosselmeyer is adjusting his cape, Clara's little slippers are poised and ready--and the Christmas Eve dancing begins.

Encore!

Three extra performances of Shakespeare's "Measure for Measure" have been scheduled by Theatre Intime because the production has been so well received by critics and audiences.

Reservations may be made at 452-8181 for performances this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Murray Theatre. The box-office is open from 1-5 and 7-10 p.m. daily.

A few cast changes have been made as student actors depart from Princeton for Christmas vacation. Director Daniel Berkowitz has cast Skip Waters in the role of Elbow the Constable, Kim Myers as Mariana, Chris Talbott as the Friar and himself as Master Froth. All have had acting experience with past Theatre Intime productions.

PJ&B Serves Up Delightful Blend of "Carousel"

Thursday, December 6, the crowded lobby of McCarter Theatre. Five minutes before the opening curtain of the PJ&B musical, "Carousel." Bill Lockwood, the young man who is program director of the Lincoln Center up in New York, who in his spare time is program director for McCarter Theatre, booking practically every film, rock concert or theatrical event at McCarter, Alexander Hall, Dillon or Jadwin gymnasiums, the man who attends opening nights the way most people in the theatre attend rehearsals, Bill Lockwood is bouncing up and down, excited, genuinely excited, about what he is about to see.

"What's so great about the PJ&B is that it's professionals and non-professionals working together," he is saying. "It's commuters, housewives, teenagers, grandmothers—why there are whole families appearing in this show!—black people, white people. Do you know that over the years PJ&B casts have included people from 29 different communities? New York City! Eastern Pennsylvania!"

Lockwood is picking up the tempo. "Why there are more than 100 people in this show. And the great thing is that we make a little money off it. It's the one way for the community to say 'thank you' for all the activities that McCarter puts on in a year. And the guy you should talk to is right there, Milt Lyon. He makes this go. You know they put the whole thing together in just three weeks. That's right, three. It's Milt's style. With an amateur group you work three hard, fast, intensive weeks and then you're on."

Milton Lyon, the director and founder of the PJ&B, swings by Lockwood and his guests. "Gosh, I'd better get started," he tells them casually. Lockwood is running out of time. "It's halfway between a town meeting and a, and a, uhm, a community love feast. That's what the PJ&B is! Hurry up, you don't want to miss this opening."

Lyon turns the corner into the right aisle, breaks into a fast walk, rushes to the piano, and hits the first key before he even sits down. The curtain is raised and the 14th annual PJ&B musical is underway.

No Apologies. Amateurs, professionals, love of the theater, community togetherness. It all sounds too syrupy to be true, but it is. And this year's PJ&B production really is another success, which despite its low budget and amateur underpinnings does not need any apologies.

And "Carousel," though it may not be Rodgers and Hammerstein's greatest musical, is entirely appropriate to the PJ&B spirit. It too is syrupy and even melodramatic. But with the proper elements of good singing and enthusiastic acting, both present in the PJ&B cast, the formula—both of the musical and the company—really works.

The leading role of Billy Bigelow is played well by Princeton University senior Steve James. Billy is a Casanova carousel barker, enticed into marriage by an innocent mill girl, Julie, played by Carole Davis. Billy, however, never becomes the model husband until Julie announces she is pregnant.

But cruel irony raises its gooey head. Billy, eager to provide for his prospective new born, is duped by the villain, Jigger Craigin (Bruce Chandlee) into a plan to knock off the local shipping magnate and collect $1,500 apiece. The plan backfires, Billy is captured, and commits suicide rather than face the shame of his actions.

Last Chance. He is led to the back gates of Heaven, one of the best staged scenes in the production. The angels give him one last chance to do something nice for those back on earth, Julie and her daughter, Louise, played convincingly by Amanda Aldridge.

He does, and reappears to tell Julie that he will always love her, something the tough, he-man carnival barker always had a difficult time saying. Julie hears him and breaks into a contented smile that means only one thing: the production's finale, "You'll Never Walk Alone."

The musical is everything they say it is. And the cast is every bit as grand (153 in number) and diverse as Mr Lockwood exclaimed it to be.

He might have added that it also includes a Ph.D. candidate in electrical engineering, pianist Don Boroson, an American Airlines executive, Doug Langston, in the part of Mr

Don't turn Christmas off!

If ever there was a Christmas when Americans deserved some holiday cheer, it's this one.

We at the River's Edge refuse to be talked into a mood of Christmas gloom. Each year Americans look forward to these holidays as the brightest, warmest of all. And after the past 12 months we've all earned a few moments of good will, open friendship and holiday joy.

We feel that despite the energy problem, the holiday season is NOT the time to turn out the lights and turn off our spirits. To that kind of logic, a big bowl of Christmas nuts! Over the years we've come through greater crises. So we say—Don't be conned into the Christmas "blues." Wave that Christmas spirit! Do that surprise shopping! Wrap those gifts with love and laughter! Enjoy those parties! Smile and be your merry Christmas self!

We're going to deck the halls with boughs of holly and keep the Christmas season jolly!

And we wish all of you a bright, sparkling, festive, happy, love-filled holiday time!

"HERE'S LOVE" AT CHRISTMAS: Hun School students are producing the Meredith Wilson musical, "Here's Love", as a Christmas treat. Surrounding Kris Kringle (Eric Sutherland) in the Macy's Parade scene are Lisa Hopkins (Mickey Mouse); Bill Andreas (Bird); Sue Kain (Frosty the Snowman); Linda Mapes (Raggedy Ann); Jon Videbeck and Jane Schwab---or maybe it's the other way around---as a pair of penguins and the smiling center of it all, Rhonda Click as a ballerina.

Bascombe, the shipping magnate; an actor-turned-lawyer-turned-part-time actor, Robert Paulus, as Mr. Snow, and a University admissions officer, Darcy Jannarone, who acts and sings very well in the part of Carrie Pipperidge, who becomes Mr. Snow's wife.

"Carousel" also is subject to its share of flaws and even bad luck. On opening night one limb from an artificial tree fell just as the floozy Mrs. Mullin (Liz Fillo) was delivering the punch line to a long story about her long list of past lovers.

One might criticize the pacing here and there—a few wooden interludes before some songs. The costumes for the men suffered somewhat in comparison to those for women. Billy Bigelow, for example, looked as if he had just stepped not off the dock in an 1880s Maine seaport, but rather out of the Sears Roebuck catalogue.

Fred Sheldon, the veteran PJ&B performer, is a hit in his part of the Heavenly Friend, who escorts Billy back to earth But Mr. Sheldon is a tall, distinguished looking gentleman, who is his silvery white suit imparted for a moment at least the image of a deathly Colonel Sanders.

But the overall product is another example of PJ&B's consistency. It is like the month of June from "Carousel"—"busting out all over." It is like the clambake that the villagers throw for themselves—"This year's just like every other," they say. It is also like Julie, about whom Billy told his Heavenly Friend: "She never changes." Replies the Heavenly Friend wisely: "No, Julie never changes."

"HERE'S LOVE"

At Hun. Music and drama students at The Hun School will give Meredith Willson's musical "Here's Love" as a Christmas gift, next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 13, 14, and 15 at 8:20 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Gregory Goida is directing a cast including Eric Sutherland as Kris Kringle; Lisa Hopkins as Mickey Mouse; Jon Videbeck and Jane Schwab as a couple of penguins; Bill Andreas as a birg; Linda Mapes as Raggedy Ann; Sue Kain as Frosty the Snowman and Rhonda Click as a ballerina.

All are in a Macy's Parade, 18 minutes long, which is the high-light of the show. "Here's Love" is an adaptation of the play about Macy's called "Miracle on 34th Street." About 80 Hun students are taking part

DANCE DRAMA COMING

In Premier. "Dance Drama on Woman," conceived by a former Princeton dancer and choreographer, will be given its premiere performance next Thursday, December 20, at 8:30 p.m. in McCarter Theatre under the sponsorship of The Dance Co-op.

Tickets may be reserved at McCarter's box-office, 921-8700.

Dorothy Fried, one of the founders of the Manning & Fried Dance Company whose dancers will perform the work, lived in Princeton for one year while her husband taught at the Institute for Advanced Studies. The idea for "Dance Drama on Woman" grew from her contacts with Clarissa Brown, Heidi Bunting, Dania Stager and Lucy Graves of Princeton, dancers and creative theatre people whose thoughts and ideas were harmonious with those of Ms. Fried.

Heidi Bunting, who is on the faculty of the Aparri School of Dance in Princeton, and Dania Stager, who is a member of the Princeton Regional Ballet's modern dance company, will perform in "Dance Drama on Woman"

The evening's program will also include "Carmina Burana, Part I" with a Fried setting to the Carloff music and two dances choreographed by Harry Manning Precht, the other founder of the Manning & Fried company. They are "Love Unlimited," a duet,: and "Heavy on the Mayonnaise," a comedy.

PLAYHOUSE

Godspell. For the young in heart, a loud, boisterous recreation of the sparkling off-Broadway version of St Matthew's Gospel. The cast is first-rate, charming and seemingly tireless but the stage freshness and spontaneity has been lost a little in the transition to the screen. Opening scenes are a delight.

Let The Good Times Roll: Excellent documentary of the Rock Explosion and the entire experience of the Fifties. A vital chronicle of its era, using choice clips from the past to make its point. With Chuck Berry, Little Richard, Fats Domino, Chubby Checkers and other names of that decade

GARDEN

Play It Again Sam: Woody Allen's delightful bow to Bogart and "Casablanca" is satisfyingly enhanced on the screen. It's not only hilarious, but poignant. Woody and the rest of the cast recreate their stage rolls

Take the Money and Run is classic, quintessential Allen again. Beautifully compact and rib-splitting.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part of all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 15c.

The concert, to be given in All Saints' Church, starts at 8 p.m., and will be conducted by David Agler, the church's organist and choirmaster.

The program includes a Corelli Concerto Grosso, the Cantata Pastorale by Scarlatti, Bach's Cantata Number 10, and the St. Nicholas Mass by Haydn. The soloists will be Sharon Alexander, who is cast as Lucia in Princeton University's coming production of "The Rape of Lucretia;" Judith Nicosia, faculty member at Westminster Choir College, Dennis Shrock, who conducts the Westminster Chamber Singers; John McLain, student at the Academy of Vocal Arts; and Daniel McConnell, a resident singer in the Philadelphia Opera Theatre.

Admission cards at $2. ($1 for students) will be available at the door

PRINCETONIAN NAMED To Head New Jersey Symphony. Sydney G. Stevens of Princeton, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, was elected President of The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra at the annual membership meeting. A retired Chairman of the New Jersey National Bank in Trenton and currently a financial consultant, Mr. Stevens said that his "first priority will be to increase the rate of annual giving in order to relieve the present operating deficit.

"The New Jersey Symphony's future is doubtful due to deficit financing," Mr. Stevens said in a candid analysis of his new duties. He added that "we have an immediate need to raise approximately $200,000 by January 31. This amount will permit us to complete the 1973-74 concert season without incurring additional debt.

"With a new, vigorous and effective fund raising effort, which is already underway," he said, "I am certain that we can obtain the necessary financial commitments between now and January 31 and then be able to move on to our long range goal of fiscal solvency for The New Jersey Symphony."

Mr. Stevens, who lives at 65 Allison Road, retired last year as Chairman of the Board of New Jersey National Bank, completing a 23-year career with the $700 million central New Jersey banking firm.

More Shopping Tips--And Only 11 Days Are Left

With less than two weeks until Christmas morning, the pace of holiday activity is greatly increasing. Wreathes are being hung, trees bought, packages wrapped and hidden, cookies made and lists hopefully checked off

We hardly know a woman who hasn't mentioned a hard-to-buy for husband, uncle, father or brother, and this week we tried to keep him in mind as we visited the stores.

The English Shop, Nassau Street, has noticed an increase in sales of warm sweaters and shirts, undoubtedly due to the fuel shortage. Looking at the shirts we saw a heavy one with green, blue, red or tan, $23. There are soft Viyellas in many solids, tartans, and tattersalls. Made of lambswool and Egyptian cotton, these shirts wash beautifully, become softer as they age and last for almost 20 years, $25 and up.

IT'S NEW To Us

The sweaters include beautiful wool mock turtlenecks by Pringle of Scotland in a range of colors, $25; a heavy cable sweater by Pendleton in maroon, green or navy, $26; and authentic Irish knit sweaters, $57.50.

EVER DREAMED OF A FERRARI?: Whether you are 4 or 40, you can now at least sleep in one. At Viking Furniture Alice Verbeyst is thinking about Christmas in a red molded fiberglass Ferrari bed, complete with wheels and champion stickers. The frame is $300 and the bedding is seperate.

Vests have also been popular this year, especially the more casual, knitted ones for daily wear. By Cox-Moore of England, there is a ribbed knit in grey, olive, gold or red, $35, and also woolen fabric ones in solids, tartans and tattersalls

Two other things we admired were the bright tartan slacks such as Princess Mary and Buchanan, and the cruisewear jackets and pants in a new texturized polyester that is the lightest fabric we have ever felt. In this Ports of Call section of the English Shop, we noticed glen plaids, checks and seersuckers.

At Harry Ballot, also on Nassau Street, we saw polyester and cotton knitted striped turtlenecks (blue with gold, red or white), $9. Any of these would be perfect under a v-neck cardigan sweater in yellow, navy or deep maroon, $20.

We also liked the red, blue or brown gingham shirts with a long button-down collar, $12.50; the neckties featuring horses, dogs, antique cars or tennis rackets, $6.50; and the wool Stewart plaid sportcoat, $85.

Knit shirts at Princeton Clothing, Witherspoon Street, are easy care, and always look neat. By Van Heusen and Arrow, dress shirts come in solids, stripes and tattersalls, and sports shirts in plaids and patterns, $9.50 to $14.

Other gift suggestions here are tartan ties in wool or acrylic, $4 to $6.50; crewneck and v-neck sweaters in a wide color range that can be machine washed and dried, by Jantzen and McGregor at $13; and an imported corduroy sportcoat in tan, brown or navy, $42.50.

Then, for the younger man, Princeton Clothing has the popular, wide-cuffed "baggies". Completely washable, these pants come in solids, plaids, and a gabardine look, $14 to $16.

A few stores down on Witherspoon, Bill's Men's Shop has lots of hats. By Stetson and Knox, there are English-cut dress hats in tweeds, glen plaids and velours and sporty caps in tweeds and plaids.

The store also has slacks for any sized man, whether his waist be a 27 or a 44. In addition to the knits and tartans, we saw a nice thick-and-thin corduroy pant in brown, tan or blue.

Then some warm surprises sure to please any man on Christmas day are a terry wrap bathrobe in white, blue or gold; a 100 percent camel's hair double-breasted topcoat; or a red, blue or yellow tattersall wool vest from England.

At Saturn, Chambers Street, the limited selection of men's clothing has been chosen with a great concern for style. For instance, from Italy, there are pure velvet suits in dark brown or navy, which should certainly do for the dressiest evening.

Then from England, we saw Mustang jackets with matching jeans-style pants in a tan, brown, blue or grey denim material. The jackets, cut in a tapered English style, have deeper topstitching, $48.

Mexico has supplied Saturn with a wrap sweater that comes natural with a brown and tan design through it or in brown or grey with an unusual multi-colored design, $36 and $38. We especially liked the beautiful French-style shirts by Jupiter. Very fitted with long, pointed collars, these shirts are in solid voile, plaids and tattersalls, $15 and $16.

Down a few steps from the men's clothing, there is a room filled with a huge selection of unisex jeans, tops and hot socks. Here we also saw a most appealing hat, mittens and matching scarf set in bright multi-colored stripes, $15.

The imported trend was also apparent at Ricchard's, Nassau Street, where we admired sheepskin coats by Morlands of England. Available in four styles including the one worn by all the TV announcers during the last winter Olympics at Munich, these sheepskin coats are the only ones for which the dry cleaning ability is guaranteed, $220 and up.

There are also sheepskin vests and flight jackets, and leather jackets and pants in a chamois suede, brushed pigskin or smooth leather.

Among the shoes we noticed styles by Bally of Switzerland, Church's of England, Wright Arch-Preserver, Frye boots and Bare Footgear of Sweden. According to Dick Lanahan, Bucchard's owner, the crepe sole shoes have been extremely popular – they wear beautifully and if there is a leather undersole, a new crepe sole can be glued on when that becomes necessary.

His and Hers shoes are being featured by Brophy's on Palmer Square. There are light beige suede casuals with a built-in arch support from Sweden, $30, and a red or brown suedeslip-on bedroom slipper with a sheepskin lining, $18 and it also comes in a tan leather.

Men's square-toed slip-on dress shoes come in a variety of styles from leather ones with gold or tassel trims to a deep red or black patent leather shoe. And, as a final thought from here, Brophy's is very pleased with it's high grade leather hiking boot with foam padding and a heavy sole, $42.

Hulit's, Nassau Street, also feels that the men are favoring casual comfortable shoes such as Clark's Wallabees. This moccasin shoe with a crepe sole is available for men and women in three suede colors and brown leather, $31.95 for the man's. Clark's also makes a Trek shoe which is similar, but more rugged looking, $24.95.

Another favorite shoe is Dunham's Waffle Stompers, which are just right for a comfortable hiking or backpacking trip. They are fully leather lined and padded for a soft inside and have a heavy vibram sole, $27.95.

On Witherspoon Street, The Black Sheep, has leather jackets, belts and wallets that are made in its own workshop in Fairhaven. The leather is extremely soft and can be handwashed in body temperature water with woolite and then laid flat to dry like a sweater.

The belts with handsome solid brass or pewter buckles in harness, animal, zodiac or abstract designs are all fitted to the wearer, $10 - $22.

In addition, the shop has a full line of leather products from other companies such as passport cases, $25, leather rings with glass liners, $20; and leather canteens, $28. We also saw more Frye boots here and deerskin slippers with a sheepskin lining, $15.50 for women and $18 for men.

Traveler's Gifts

A scoop-neeked short gown and matching long-sleeved coat that wash and dry in minutes are a perfect travel set. The flower print is predominately coral pink or blue (Edith's).

A Gallente blue, green and gold striped jewel, cosmetic, or lingerie case should perk up the inside of any suitcase, $9 to $18. (Clayton's Main Store).

A set of red, pink, or blue luggage tags would make suitcases easier to identify at the airport pick-up, $1.25 each (Clayton's Main Store).

Pantene's navy travel bags with red piping are filled with men's or women's hair products, $6. (Marsh's and Thorne's Pharmacies).

If that man on your list is a pipe or cigar smoker, chosing a present should be easy because the Princeton area is fortunate in having two excellent tobacco stores. At Skim's, Palmer Square and Nassau Street, there are free form pipes made of African Bubinga wood. Hand-carved by Princeton Pipes U.S.A., this is an excellent new material that gives a good smoke, $40 is the top price.

Other thoughts are a box of 25 of his favorite cigars, $5 to $25, a Dunhill or Balkan Sobranie sampler box of pipe tobaccos, $3 - $6; or Alfred H. Dunhill's book, "The Gentle Art of Smoking," which stresses the pleasure of smoking over the habit and includes a history of smoking, $7.50.

At John David's, Montgomery Shopping Center, there are some clear lucite smoking accessories. We saw a vertical holder for four pipes, an ashtray with a wooden base and metal liner and a lighter which can store its own cigarettes, $17.50 to $26.

The pipe selection is huge, with all the major manufacturers such as Savenelli, Dunhill, Charatan, G.B.D., Meerschaum, Ben Wade and Comoy represented. They range in price from $3.95 to Ben Wade's $500 pipe called the Nobel Prize, a free-form pipe with a beautiful wooden grain.

Or, for a change of pace, why not let him carve his own pipe? Home Artisan has a kit for carving and finishing a briar pipe, $13.50 and Sculpture Studio has one with a block of meerschaum and the necessary tools for intricate carving, $22.50.

Then to fill these pipes, in addition to packaged brands, John David has his own tobacco blends, such as Scotch Whiskey, Old England, Safari Blend, After Dinner, or many others, 95 cents to $1.25 for two ounces.

In the den or living room, a man is sure to appreciate a chair of his own. Nassau Interiors, Nassau Street, has a top grain leather lounge chair that looks exceedingly comfortable. This chair comes in a deep red, cordovan, tan or green, $399, and matching ottomans are available.

At Viking Furniture, also on Nassau Street, we saw the original classic Eames chair in black leather, $595; and a molded fiberglass German Gyro chair that can be used in water, or land, or even as a toboggan, whenever we see snow again, $330.

The Stuns collection from Sweden, a colorful canvas furniture with tubular steel frames is at the Workbench, State Road. This casual furniture is reasonably priced with a low-back chair costing $59, and a new loveseat, $108. The available colors are brown, green, yellow or orange.

Some more wrappable gifts from these stores include a 14-inch square walnut record cabinet, $29.50 at the Workbench, a solid brass pharmacy lamp that tilts and telescopes up and down to any desired position, $60 at Nassau Interiors, and an electric digital clock that records the hour with lighted dots -- a handsome and most unusual item, $259.95 at Viking.

The teak and rosewood tic-tac-toe and Chinese Wisemen puzzles at Viking are perfect brain teasers, and, as a nice bonus, are decorative when not in use, $13.

The pharmacies have a surprisingly varied number of men's gifts. Thorne's, Nassau Street, has two new colognes and after shave lotions -- Kanon and Cervantes; Timex watches from $10.95, including the Quartz watch, which is not only water resistant, but gives the day and date, and is accurate to within one minute a year, $80, and Gillette's Cricket table lighters in many designs, from an abstract black and white or an old world map, $3.95.

The excellent Kent and Masini Pearson pure bristle club and military hairbrushes are at Marsh's, Nassau Street. The prices begin at $7.50 for a pocket brush, and lady's styles are available, too.

Marsh's also has Chanel gentleman's cologne and after shave, from $4; Tobac soap on a rope, $5, and umbrellas such as the Knirps telescopic ones that are perfect for under the car seat or in an attache case on those iffy days, $12-21, or huge brightly colored ones to brighten a rainy day and keep more than one person dry, $10.

At Forer Pharmacy, Witherspoon Street, we saw Panasonic radios, tape recorders and TV's, all of which can be purchased on lay-a-way terms. The prices begin at approximately $14 for a small white circular portable radio.

Another brain teaser is here -- a balancing puzzle called Vertigo that becomes a floating mobile sculpture when finally mastered, $2. Then to camoflage a tissue box and at the same time display some favorite people, Forer's has a large square photocube that holds many standard sized pictures, $4.50.

Some other suggestions from the many stores in the Princeton area. At H.R. Kabnus, Chambers Street, there are textured 14 kt. gold square cufflinks and matching tie bar, $67.50, and Bulova's accutron watch which has its inner workings visible through glass, $150.

Urken's Supply Store on Witherspoon Street has tools such as a Black and Decker 12-piece sander assortment, $19.99, or Stanley's Quick Fix Kit, which has several basic tools, making it the perfect extra set for a boat, camper or car, $12.25.

Then at Hope Chest, Montgomery Shopping Center you can order a bar sign customized with your husband's name and showing

DECK THE HALLS

The Cummins Shop, Nassau Street, has ornaments for any sized tree. There are tiny wooden angels in many colors; slightly larger wooden santas, horses, skiers and snow men; and birds from traditional partridges to yellow peacocks, 50 cents to $1.60

Hanging mirrors in the shapes of ovals, diamonds and pears, prettily sparkle and reflect the tree, 20 cents each. Cummins Shop also has unusual ropings, such as pepperment candy or gold and silver balls, $2.15 to $3.

• By Spode, there is the pretty Christmas Tree china in ashtrays, plates, bowls and teapots. Holly glasses, 8 for $7.75; and glass dessert plates with a decorated tree design, 8 for $15, are also here, and any of these greatly add to the Christmass tradition.

The girls at Nordicraft told us that hearts and pigs (because ham is the traditional dinner) are symbols of a Scandinavian Christmas, and the store is filled with these shapes

We saw tiny wooden ornaments, 6 pigs for $1; a brass hanging candelabra with cut-out hearts, $17.50; straw woven heart baskets to fill with candies in natural or red, $1.75 and up; and cutting or cheese boards shaped like pigs with a red ribbon in their tails, $2.50 and $6.50.

Mobiles also epitomize Christmas in Scandinavia, and we saw several. Everything was most appealing, but our favorite decoration was a green wreath hung horizontally from the ceiling with red ribbons and hanging from it were tiny red wooden hearts and straw figures, $10.50.

drink recipes, $21.98; and at Home Decor, Princeton Shopping Center, there is a beautiful alpaca rug from Peru in natural colors with a llama in the center, $200.

If you are interested in books or sporting equipment, see last week's Town Topics; and for cameras, see the issue of November 29

OTHER PAPERS will run your classifieds for half price, or for nothing if they do not sell. In in TOWN TOPICS, you'll find more ads and better results.

Many of the above stores have far more than men's gifts For instance at Forer Pharmacy, we saw bath aids for children. There is a Bubble Bug (bubble bath inside a VW), $2.50; a cat and dog soap on a rope, $1.25; and a Tinkerbell charm set with hand lotion, cologne and powder, $2.50.

This store also has a Jean Nate basket with every conceivable bath aid, $7.50; and Whitman's Sampler boxes such as a tiny one in an elf's arms, $1.49, or a one-pound box at $2.70.

Marsh's has an excellent perfume selection, beginning with Madame Rochas, one of America's foremost perfumes for the person who is used to the best of everything. The prices start at $6.50 for a purse flacon

Marsh's also suggests Je Reviens parfum de toilette in a blue plush bottle that has 700 metered sprays, $7; L'Air du Temps perfume in a pretty bottle topped by a dove, $40 for one ounce; or a Chanel No. 5 gift set of perfume and cologne in matching black spray bottles, $13.50

There are gift boxes of Bronnley's imported country herb soaps; Roger and Gallet's fine French milled soaps in fragrances such as sandalwood or lavender; and English Bath cubes that perfume and soften the water, $1 to $12.50

At Thorne's the choice is varied, from Mickey Mouse soap, three bars and a washcloth for $1.98, to a bike light that runs on batteries and reflects in two directions, $1.98; to Schick's Fresh Air Machine that automatically eliminates odors, $19.95.

A fascinating small appliance is the Ronson Can-Do, which opens cans, mixes, whips, mashes and sharpens knives, $26.95. Thorne's also has a full selection of Russell Stover candies such as assorted creams, chocolate covered pecans or French chocolate mints, $1.10 to $10.25.

Perfume and cosmetics are here too, and we noticed a Nina Ricci L'Air du Temps gold and white gift set of Eau de Toilette and powder, $14.50, and from Dior, a Diorella two-ounce atomizer, $8.50. There are more gifts from Germaine Monteil, Cabochard, Weil de Weil and many others.

Just down a few doors at Nassau Interiors we admired the pretty display of pillows based on those in Gloria Vanderbilt's collection and ginger jar lamps in Christmas colors.

Around the store we noticed several small lamps and tables that would make excellent gifts. The mahogany tables are in several styles such as oval pie crust on a pedestal base, $43; a butler's tray, $129, and a tray stand with a Spode Queen's Bird platter, $170.

The lamps have pleated shades and bases of a glass column, a brass ginger jar, or a candlestick, $25 and up. However, our favorite item in the store was a large mirror framed by a gorgeous hand-screened Chinese print with a gold background, $399.

The Workbench showed us a teak sofa-bed with its own huge storage drawer, $232.50 in an orange and magenta or beige and white plaid material.

A bright yellow two-drawer desk, $99.50, an Italian lamp with a beige marble rectangular base, $60; and a Bentwood rocker for children in a walnut finish, $60, also caught our attention.

In addition to the chairs and games mentioned above, Viking Furniture has a tower package by Kartell. This is a series of single and double cylinders that can be arranged as a bar, wall divider, plant stand or whatever you immagination desires, $170.

For decoration, we liked the Adam and Eve design that was hand printed in Denmark on a woolen wall hanging, sofa pillows woven by a woman in Rhode Island who weaves her own wool, $60, and a winter birch that has been preserved, so it can be placed in an inside nook, $69.

Tiger Five to Play Oregon in Jayhawk Classic

Princeton's sophomore-dominated but well-balanced basketball team heads for the Jayhawk Classic in Lawrence, Kansas, this weekend backed by the belief that it has the ability to give a good performance against some of the nation's better teams. The Tigers are cast in an opening round game against Oregon and, depending on the outcome of Friday's action, will play Kansas or Washington State the following night.

Tuesday will find them in Charlotte, North Carolina, to go against Davidson, which they defeated here last December, 82-78. A break for Christmas will be followed by participation in the ECAC Holiday Festival in Madison Square Garden. (For the story on Tuesday night's game in Jadwin Gym against Rutgers, see page 25.)

SPORTS in Princeton

Victories over Navy at Annapolis by 64-44 and Villanova in the home opener by 77-70 made last week thoroughly successful for Coach Pete Carril's quintet. The starting team of two seniors and three sophomores dominated both games and gave further evidence of welcome scoring balance by putting eight out of a possible ten in double figures. Captain Andy Rimol and the sophomore backcourt pair, Armond Hill and Mickey Steurer, all produced 10 points or better in both games, Rimol setting the pace with a total of 39.

Adding to their accomplishments, the Princetonians averaged 56 per cent from the floor and, against Villanova, were a perfect 15 for 15 from the foul line. Turnovers have plagued them, however, particularly on Saturday against the Wildcats, when they were charged with 27, but errors of this nature should decrease as the sophomores gain experience.

Tigers Take Charge Early. In both games, Princeton had a satisfactory lead at the half and added to its margin when play resumed. The early part of the Villanova game provided see-saw action, but with eight minutes to go, the home team moved in front on a driving layup by Steurer and proceeded to build an 11-point advantage. The Wildcats narrowed the gap slightly, but it was still 29-22 for the Tigers when they went to the dressing room.

BACK COURT PAIR: Armond Hill, left, and Mickey Steurer give the impression that they will be Princeton's starting guards for the next three seasons. The two sophomores have been averaging in double figures and contributing fine ball handling.

University Closing to Affect Athletics

This week's decision by Princeton University that it will not reopen following the Christmas holidays until January 21 will create a conflict between a number of athletic contests and the new examination period--January 30 through February 7.

On the schedule approved more than a year ago are home basketball games against Columbia on on February 1 and Cornell February 2 and hockey games here against Cornell on January 30 and Dartmouth February 2 and against Yale at New Haven on February 6. The swimming team has two meets, including a projected trip to Ann Arbor to face Michigan on February 2, while the wrestling team has two Ivy League matches booked for Jadwin Gym. Fencing, squash, indoor track at the varsity level and numerous Varsity B and freshman events are also affected.

The University has three options: to play the contests as scheduled, hoping that key athletes can avoid conflicts with their exams; to attempt rescheduling, a difficult task in view of the already-compact nature of winter sports programming; and a decision to forfeit.

Commitments to Ivy League opponents will receive priority over those with other colleges. Forfeiture of Ivy games is not considered likely.

While the dormitories remain closed, the 130 athletes involved will be housed and fed in Caldwell Field House, adjacent to Jadwin Gymnasium. The cost of maintaining the athletic program during the period when the dormitories are closed has been estimated between$10, and $15,000.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you

By John Bernard

Here's an oddity about Charley Finley and the Oakland A's...Even though Finley had no previous experience in baseball, he has served as his own general manager of the baseball team–and has done better than many general managers on other teams who have spent their lifetimes in the game!...When Finley took over the A's, they were a second-division team, but with the trades he's made and farm system he developed, they have won the division championship the last three years, and the World Series the last two years.

Here's a great example that shows you can't always believe the odds-makers...When the Chicago Bears won the National Football League title game by beating the Washington Redskins in 1940 by the lopsided score of 73-0, the Redskins–and not the Bears–were actually favored to win the game that day!...In fact, the Redskins were favored by seven points, yet lost by 73!

Here's a football oddity that nobody seems able to explain...In pro football, punts are measured not from where they are kicked, but from the line of scrimmage–while the exact opposite is true of field goals which are measured from where they are kicked and not from the line of scrimmage!

As soon as they came back, Joe Vavricka, Rimol and Barnes Hauptfuhrer connected, and Villanova tried to stem the tide with a full-court press. Fine ball-handling beat that, and the Princeton advantage mounted as high as 17 points with a little more than five minutes of the period gone.

The fine shooting of a Villanova freshman, Larry Herron, kept the game from becoming a rout as he used a 13-for-19 performance to collect 29 points. With less than a minute remaining, the victors had a 13-point lead, Villanova then adding three meaningless baskets to cut its final deficit to seven

At Annapolis, the Orange and Black lost an early eight-point lead when it was caught at 14-all, but Vavricka's six field goals in the first period kept the Tigers in control. They held a 32-19 margin with less than three minutes to go, settling for a 34-24 lead at the half-time buzzer.

Foul trouble threatened briefly in the final period, Hauptfuhrer and Vavricka each having three with more than 10 minutes left and Rimol getting his fourth shortly thereafter. The victors thereupon slowed the pace markedly, went for the good shot and did a fine defensive job at all times.

Four days after losing to Princeton by 20 points on its own floor, Navy battled Penn on even terms at the Palestra for three-quarters of the game before losing, 71-60. Impressive as the young Tigers are, however, they cannot be ranked as a major threat to the Quakers, who are odds-on favorites to become the first Ivy team to win the title five years running since Dartmouth turned the trick more than three decades ago.

TWO LOSSES IN HOCKEY

After Two Victories. The state of euphoria that enveloped Princeton's hockey team after back-to-back triumphs over St. Lawrence and Brown was dissipated, at least temporarily, when the Tigers dropped one-sided decisions to Rensselaer Polytech at Troy to Boston University in Baker Rink. Nothing went right for the Orange and Black as it gave up a five-goal first period in losing to R.P.I., 8 to 2, and was then shut out by B.U., 4-0.

The encounter with Boston University had been billed as a test of hockey's drawing power on a night when the Princeton basketball team was playing in Jadwin Gym. Unfortunately for the Friends of Princeton Hockey, both the fans and the team let them down. There have been more spectators in Baker Rink for Saturday matinee contests than there were for the B.U. game--despite the team's welcome 2-1 record coming into the game--and the brand of Princeton play was far short of crowd appeal

The visitors, too, have had their problems this year, including successive losses to Dartmouth and Vermont, but they took charge of the action here early in the opening round and were never in trouble. A goal as quickly as 1:21 was followed by another at 5:27, and when a third shot found the mark 48 seconds after the middle period began, it was clear that the uncoordinated Princeton offense would not catch up.

The passing was rarely sharp, and the work of all five players in mounting an attack rarely made life a problem for the B.U goalie, Ed Walsh, an All-East selection last winter. The losers fell easy prey to penalty-killing, a problem underscored by the fact that in their first four games, they have yet to score on a power play. The visitors outshot Princeton, 32 to 16, in the first two periods and then were content to let the Tigers take a 13-7 margin as they protected their lead in the final round.

Had goalie Phil Robinson been given topflight protection throughout the game, it is conceivable that Princeton might have emerged with a wholly unusual scoreless tie. Failure to cover loose pucks was responsible for the first two goals the Terriers made, and the fine performance Robinson gave throughout the evening was frequently made more difficult by his teammates' lapses.

At Troy last week, R.P.I. bagged the game before it was 20 minutes old. Eventually, scores by Brad Richards and sophomore Gary O'Meara averted a shutout, but that was all.

Two games were on the mid-

Cronin, Snickenberger Are All-Ivy

Last-place Princeton placed two players on the offensive unit of the All-Ivy football team but not surprisingly was shut out in the balloting for the defensive platoon

Captain Bill Cronin, a fine guard who provided most of the interior blocking for Tiger backs, was named to the line. Six of the seven coaches against whose teams he played picked him for the first team.

Walt Snickenberger, the running back who gained more than 900 yards, was the other choice from Princeton, showing an early return to form after sitting out the 1972 season. He, too, was named by six of the opposing coaches, despite unimpressive showings against Cornell and Penn.

Gaining a vote for the second team from the one coach who did not pick him for a first-place spot, Snick totalled 13 out of a possible 14 points in the balloting The all-star backfield is rounded out by Adolph "Beep Beep" Bellizeare of Penn, who matched Snickenberger's total of 13, Harvard quarterback Jim Stoeckel and Rich Klupchak of Dartmouth, both of whom polled 12 points.

Named to the second team were split end Bill Skinner and tight end Bob Harding, but it was not until the honorable mention listings came along that the Tigers were noticed on defense. Even then, there was only one: captain-elect Tom Schalch, a tackle.

Three players earned the distinction of earning All-Ivy ratings for their entire varsity careers: split end Don Clun of Penn, defensive end Tom Csatari of Dartmouth and linebacker Bob Lally of Cornell. Until this season, only Archie Roberts, Columbia quarterback, and Cornell's Ed Marinaro, now with the Minnesota Vikings, had been recognized for similar ability.

Bridge, the sport for the active mind, is to be had no more in the Soviet Union. According to sources, the game has been banned by the board of the USSR Sports Committee. The committee made this statement about the game: "Having nothing in common with the Soviet system of physical education and ...socially harmful". Bridge had become a very popular game in the Soviet Union. Authorities have said that bridge clubs are "Absolutely inadmissible".

Tennis has also become a very popular game today, and SPORTS 'N' THINGS, Montgomery Shopping Center, Rte 206 and 518, 924-8162, carries a complete tennis line for your selection, including an extensive tennis clothing dept. week schedule--a trip to Penn Tuesday for the team's second Ivy contest of the season and a meeting with Army in Baker Rink Wednesday. A road trip to play Providence Friday and Boston College Saturday will end December action until the tournament at Williams College between Christmas and New Year's.

PHS FIVE SET TO OPEN

At Brick Township Friday, The Princeton High School basketball team—80 per cent of it new—will try to get off on the right foot Friday evening when it travels to the shore for an opening game with Brick Township. Starting time is 8 p.m.

Coach Marvin Trotman announced that he would start Pete Watson at center, Bobby King, the lone returning veteran and a super-shooter, and Ted Brown at forward, and Craig Robinson and "probably" Steve Towns at guard. King and Robinson are co-captains.

In last year's opener here, PHS ambushed the surprised Brick quintet, 72-37. This year, of course, PHS is a growing, inexperienced team, that still is not ready, according to Trotman, after scrimmages with Hightstown last week and Princeton Day School Friday. "We're still getting used to each other's moves," he said.

Following Brick Township, the Little Tigers will open at home Tuesday afternoon at 3:45 against a strong Franklin Township team. Like last year, all PHS home games will be played in the afternoon.

PHS FOOTBALL CAPTAINS: Elected by their teammetes to captain the 1974 Princeton High School football team are Jeff Benfer, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Benfer, 23 Benford Drive, and Pete Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roneld Watson, 12 Chenning Way, Princeton Junction. Benfer is e fullbeck end defensive end; Watson a querterback end defensive sefetyman.

Dimes Tourney Cancelled. Princeton's first scheduled appearance ever in the annual March of Dimes fund-raising Tournament evaporated last week in the wake of a ruling by the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association. The tourney was to be held Saturday in the Rider College gym.

The death blow was the NJSIAA ruling prohibiting a school that plays more than 20 regular season games form playing in a Christmas Tournament, the NJSIAA state tourney and another tournament. Eliminated by the ruling were Hamilton, Trenton, Hopewell Valley, Hightstown and Notre Dame, leaving only PHS, Steinert, St. Anthonly, and Lawrence.

The round-robin tournament in which teams play 8-minute "games" until there is a champion had been expanded this year to 10 teams, the first March of Dimes event to involve all county schools. If the NJSIAA adheres to its ruling, it appears as if the event will be cancelled permanently.

"I was sorry it didn't go through," commented Trotman. "It's an opportunity to see each team in the area and it would have given us an extra quarter at least of experience."

Trotman described the PDS scrimmage Friday as about even "They'll (the Panthers) will be tough. They're going to surprise a lot of people."

From his own squad, Trotman reported that he thought junior Roland Alexander played "exceptionally well." It proved conclusively, he added, that the PHS team was far from ready.

"It's not like it was last year," he said, "when the team was all set—the product of two years' building. "This is a building year; we're growing together. It will take a while to jell.

"The potential is there," Trotman concluded. "It's just a question of how long it takes."

WINTER OUTLOOK MIXED

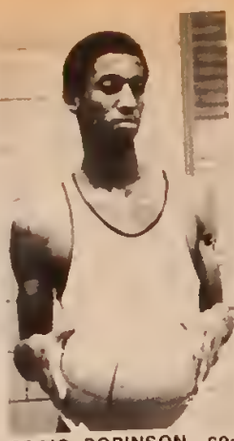
At Princeton Day. As the Panthers of Princeton Day School launch their winter sports campaigns, the outlook ranges from highly confident to extremely guarded.

Confident is basketball coach and PDS athletic director Alan Taback, who has four starters returning from last year's 15-6 team, with three players rated toss-ups for the fifth spot, and three more fighting to become the team's sixth man.

Although he lost all-time leading PDS scorer Mark Ellsworth to graduation, Taback looks at this year's depth and the records of the past two years, 29-12 overall, and says: "I feel we have a winning tradition." the Basketball team opens Friday at 3:30 at home against Moorestown Friends.

Guarded is the outlook from Harry Hulon-Miller, the hockey coach. Like Taback, he lost an all-time PDS leading scorer, Buzzy Woodworth. He also lost another important forward, John Mittnacht, and another integral part of the team, though not a player.

That is longtime assistant coach and consultant Dick Vaughan, who has retired after 25 years of service. "He was my right arm," says Rulon-Miller. The Panther hockey team was scheduled to take the ice Wednesday against the Abington Hockey Club. Its next home game is Wednesday, December 19, against the Essex Comets—4 o'clock.



CRAIG ROBINSON, co-captain of the PHS basketball team, will be one of the starting guards in Friday's opener at Brick Township. He's 5-11

Quintet Deep. Returning to the starting Panther basketball lineup are forwards Hon Webster, 6-4, co-captain, who averaged 15 points last year; Bill Martin, 6-2, 200 pounder who is the team's strongest rebounder; and sophomore guards Frank Konstantynowicz, 6-2; and Evan Bash, 5-11 senior.

Nick Brady, a 6-1 sophomore, Keith Thomas, 1 6-0 junior, and Tom Dalrymple, 6-5 senior, are competing for the other starting forward spot in Taback's two-guard, three-forward alignment.

The reserve guard position is up for grabs among Paul Goldman, 5-11 junior, Fran Treves, 5-9 senior, and Greg Bash, 5-11 junior. Greg could be a real bonus, since he lettered as a freshman on the varsity but sat out all of last year.

"We'll probably be playing eight men in and out all the time" says Taback. "We'll use a pressing defense and if we can reach our potential we feel we'll end up better than last year. The schedule this year is tougher but we may make up for it."

Skaters Timy. Besides the losses of Vaughan and Woodworth, Rulon-Miller also will miss forward John Mittnacht. His greatest concern is the size of his returning skaters, especially some from the junior varsity. "We have some excellent hockey players who are 5-3 and 5-4," he says.

Anchoring the Panthers defense will be two three-year starters and this year's co-captains, goalie John Boyd, a senior, and defenseman Bill McClellan, a junior, and also Ralph Brown.

For scoring punch Rulon-Miller is counting on the forward line of David Beckwith, Cole Harrop and Tim Hamid, returning intact from last year's 8-8 team. One of the good little men to watch is Carl Erdman, just 5-4.

Says Rulon-Miller: "We have a large number of young but talented 10th graders. Wait and see seems to be the watchword for the PDS hockey squad.

BALANCE WINS

For Hun Five In Opener. A balanced scoring attack from five starters powered the Hun School basketball team Friday to victory in its first start—a 65-55 triumph over home-team Blair Academy.

Thursday afternoon at 4, Hun will oppose Baldwin School from New York in one of the opening games in the Peddie Invitational Tournament being held for the first time through Saturday in Hightstown. Eight teams from New York and New Jersey will vie for the championship.

Following that, Hun will play host to Admiral Farragut Wednesday afternoon in a 4 p.m. contest.

Against Blair, Hun's starting five--all returning veterans--accounted for all Hun points. Junior Tony Trani led the balanced attack with 17 points. He was followed by Bill Hollowell and Brent Bystrzycki, who had 15 each; Brian Logue, 12 and Dave Clark, 6. The only substitution made by coach Dave Leete was junior Mike Troyonovich.

"We played fairly well," observed Leete, "for the first game." It was a team effort, he said, well balanced not only in scoring but rebounding as well

PHS Winter Track Team Looks to Fine Season

Five years ago winter track was disbanded at Princeton High School. This season the Little Tigers are probably the team to beat for the Mercer County championship.

Obviously, things have happened to cause the turnaround. for one, the school acquired a banked, wooden 160-yard outdoor track from Princeton University--the only high school to possess one in the country. Eleven trips around for a mile.

Second, Marc Anderson took over as coach four years ago. Victories were slow in coming. Two that first year. Three the next. Last year, the Little Tigers were 6-3. This season, bolstered by members from a crack cross-country team that swept past all opponents in the area, PHS is the team to be reckoned with Fifty-four candidates responded to Anderson's call--more than reported for basketball or wrestling.

About a dozen of them are girls. Commenting that it was not typical of him to make such statements, Anderson said the PHS was "a co-favorite, if not the favorite," to win the county title. "Certainly, we've got a good shot at it."

Woodside, Nichols Excel. PHS will be virtually unbeatable in the mile and two mile. The big two are John Woodside and Pete Nichols who ran 1 and 2 in all PHS X-country meets. Anderson reported that in time trials last week, Woodside fashioned a 4:34 mile and 9:44 two-mile.

These are fantastic times, he said, "comparable to anybody in the state." Nichols is just a couple steps behind, he added. "These two have unlimited potential."

Added depth in the longer distances will come from Royce Flippin and Tim Anderson--the second half of the "big four" on the The PHS X-country team--and from junior Morgan Snyder.

Two more cross country runners, Steve Roderick and Bill Frazier will compete in the 440 and 880 distances. Transfer student, Tommy Brans, a sophmore, will run the 60-yard dash together with veteran Mike While. While, high point scorer last year, also will compete in the 60-yard high hurdles and 440.

In the weight events, Louis DiFalco, a senior, is back, and "a lot of young kids, the most notable Tom Bart, a sophmore," said Anderson.

Further evidence that the pieces are falling in place early is the first appearance of senior Freddie Wilson. The first time Wilson, a standout soccer player, ever had run on the track he ran a :53 quarter mile. "Exceptional under the circumstances," glowed Anderson. "He'll help us a great deal in the sprints, where we've been weak in the past."

First Year for League. The jelling of the Little Tigers couldn't have come at a better time. Anderson reported that a first Mercer County League Championship will be determined according to the dual meet won-lost record of PHS, Trenton, Hamilton, Steinert, and Ewing. The team will also have meets with Franklin Township, South Brunswick, New Brunswick, Peddie, Lawrenceville and Hightstown. The opening meet is Friday at 3:30 against visiting Franklin.

Anderson described one of the girls on the team, Cathy Woodbridge, as a "fantastic talent." "I don't know of a better half-miler in this part of the country." Running against boys in a five-mile time trial, Cathy, he said, finished in 32 minutes and was closer to the top than the bottom among all finishers.

"The guys like her on the team and they encourage her. She's loaded with talent." Most other girls will run in Jayvee meets, he said.

Anderson is assisted by Jim Beachell, who also assists head track coach Larry Ivan. "I'm optimistic," said Anderson about the coming season, "and I'm not one usually to get optimistic. But I'm really excited about the season."

MAT OPENER FRIDAY

PHS vs. North Hunterdon. Princeton High School wrestling coach Tom Murray will send eight lettermen against visiting North Hunterdon Friday evening at 8 when the two schools meet in the PHS gym.

Ability to fill eight of the twelve slots with veterans, notwithstanding, isn't likely to prevent a Hunterdon victory. PHS has never come close to defeating the Lions, one of the strong mat teams in the state year after year. What is certain is that wrestling buffs will be treated to some outstanding action on the mat.

The Little Tigers figure to be competitive for Mercer County honors and rank as one of the pre-season favorites. Lettermen taking the mat against Hunterdon Friday include Dave Robinson, 101 pounds; Tom Severson (108), captain Mike Holcombe (122), Chris Schneeweiss (129), Phil Ebersole (135), Bob Zinsmeister (148), Angelo Arcaro (170) and Jeff Drummond (188).

PHS newcomers to the varsity are Jerry Moriarty (115), Fred Eiker (141), Dan Poling (heavyweight) and Dave Gilbert and Vincent Ader. The latter two are battling for the right to represent the 158 pound division.

Wednesday the team will play host to Woodrow Wilson in a 3 p.m. match.

Before the opener, the Little Tigers will have held practice sessions with Franklin Township and Pennington School. "It looks pretty good so far," commented Murray.

He added that the team has a lot of fine individual wrestlers. One he singled out was Arcaro whom he said has shown tremendous improvement.

Zinsmeister Again

Football honors continue to accrue to Princeton High School halfback Bob Zinsmeister and tackle Dave Harwood.

The most recent-and most prestigious is their selection to the All-Delaware Valley Area first team offense. They and Notre Dame back Tom Boyda were the only ones named from Mercer County to this unit.

PHS end Richard Warfiled was named to the second team offense, while guard Da Poling was picked on the second teamm defense.

PHS Students Vote to Renovate Present School

"This building is BEAUTIFUL!"

"Besides, nine million dollars is a lot of money."

With a degree of sentimental attachment which has startled Princeton High School's teachers and administrators, students have overwhelmingly rejected the idea of a brand-new school building.

In a recent poll, 840 students (about 70 percent of the student body) told the school system just how they felt. Of the 840 who cast a vote, 656 (78.1 percent) voted for full renovation of the existing Gothic and post-Gothic building. Only 110 wanted a new school and only 18 voted for the bare minimum in repair.

This coming Tuesday, Princeton's school board will announce its decision on what to do with the old building. It's the regular December meeting of the board and it will be held at 8 p.m. in Community Park School.

As late as Tuesday of this week, the board still had made only a "rough" decision, according to President Hannah Fox. But she promised definitive action December 18. The architect will also be named at that meeting, she said.

Princeton's voters will pass on the board's decision, probably in a referendum next spring.

Four options are open to the board: new building at $9 million, full remodeling and renovation at $4.9 million, pared-down remodeling at $3.7 million or rock-bottom patchup at $1 million.

Option Two, the full remodeling job, is the one PHS students like and the one favored editorially by The Tower, student newspaper.

PHS students gathered in the shabby, scuffed-seat auditorium before the poll to hear Principal George Petrillo tell them what they didn't have to be told—that the PHS building suffers from three chronic ailments: lack of space, obsolescence and inability to accommodate new programs.

The principal's words were underlined as he talked by the banging of a hall door outside the auditorium, its pneumatic closing device broken. Students not in that particular assembly went back and forth along the corridor, making only the normal commotion of passage. But the noise was an under-sound to Mr. Petrillo's explanations.

After the two assemblies—probably not even renovation will provide an auditorium big enough for all—students went to classrooms and talked about it before voting.

In one class, over half the 23 students voted for Option Two, but there was strong feeling in this group for a new building.

"In a new location, we could have more rooms, everything the teachers need," one girl urged. "Besides, we're way under the state's allowable acreage here."

"Do you know how much land costs in Princeton?" exclaimed one boy. "Where'd we get that nine million?"

And a friend in the next seat shook his head. "If it would look like other new schools I've seen—forget it."

"Isn't there something more useful the school board could do with nine million dollars?" one boy asked.

"If they build a new building, what would happen to this one?" asked one girl. "If this place is well built, why get out of it?"

Several students in this class didn't see much difference between Options Two and Three.

"Like, if you're going to do it anyway, you might as well chip in a few more million and do it right," shrugged one student.

But one proponent of a new school building suggested that anything else would be money thrown away: "If you don't put up a new building right now," she warned, "you're going to have to do the whole thing over again in about five years."

A classmate nodded her head: "This old building—it doesn't give the teachers what they need, even with Option Two."

"Actually," another girl mused, "it isn't—you know—it isn't the building that counts, it's the quality of the education you get that's important."
